one might believe that museum studies is a stable field of academic inquiry based on a set of familiar institutional forms and functions but as institutions museums have never been stable or singular and neither has the discipline of museum studies museum studies as a field of academic inquiry has received little critical attention one result of this neglect has arguably been a lack of invention in museum studies another is the distancing of academic museum studies from museum practice doing museology differently charts a different course a critical creative reflection on academic practice the book takes the form of a narrative account of museological fieldwork a research story unfolds challenging academic conventions at the level of its own presentation the book combines critical museum visiting with an autobiographical voice the identification of a previously underexplored interdisciplinary space leads the author to experiment with museum studies using contemporary developments in the theory and practice of human geography the new approaches to museological research and representation that emerge from this unique inquiry challenge assumed institutional and intellectual boundaries and act as a call to further creative experimentation a comprehensive survey of american artist mark dion examining three decades of his critically engaged practice interrogating our relationship with nature the first book in two decades to consider the entire oeuvre of mark dion b 1961 this volume examines thirty years of the american artist s pioneering inquiries into how we collect interpret and display nature part of a generation of artists expanding institutional critique in the 1990s dion adopted the methods of the archaeologist or the natural history museum juxtaposing natural objects taxidermy books and more to reorganize the natural and the manmade in poetic witty ways these sculptures installations and interventions offer novel approaches to questioning institutional power which he sees as connected to the control and representation of nature generously illustrated this publication introduces new insights and features more than seventy five artworks essays address topics ranging from dion s ecological activism to his loving critique of museums a diverse group of contributors explores his work as a teacher his public artworks such as neukom vivarium in seattle and his intricate curiosity cabinets installed throughout the world they reveal how dion s practice and formal investigations which are rooted in history connect to contemporary questions of disciplinary boundaries and the acquisition of knowledge in the age of the anthropocene museum media edited by michelle henning museum media explores the contemporary uses of diverse media in museum contexts and discusses how technology is reinventing the museum it considers how technological changes from photography and television through to digital mobile media have given rise to new habits forms of attention and behaviors it explores how research methods can be used to understand people s relationships with media technologies and display techniques in museum contexts as well as the new opportunities media offer for museums to engage with their visitors entries written by leading experts examine the transformation of history and memory by new media the ways in which exhibitions mediate visitor experience how designers and curators can establish new kinds of relationships with visitors the expansion of the museum beyond its walls and its insertion into a wider commercial and corporate landscape focusing on formal theoretical and technical aspects of exhibition practice this in depth volume explores questions of temporality attachment to objects atmospheric and immersive exhibition design the reinvention of the exhibition medium and much more tommy trauma and postwar youth culture traces the development of one of rock music s central masterpieces and its relation to the social cultural history of the era composer and guitarist pete townshend was the creative force behind the who one of britain s greatest rock bands townshend grew up in an england decimated by the loss of life and hope that was the initial legacy of world war ii the product of a troubled childhood townshend faced ongoing struggles with sexual and personal trauma that colored his later work as a performer an ambitious composer who wanted to create both pop hits and lasting personal works townshend achieved his greatest success with the who through their 1969 rock opera tommy townshend gave many accounts of the work s evolution and its significance to him and he participated in and encouraged its continued legacy dewar macleod recounts his own interactions with townshend and tommy to draw out the work s impact its critical reception its place both in postwar history and the rock era and its continuing relevance this book will appeal to all interested in the history of rock the creative process and the long shadow of the 1960s offering for the first time a full historicized accounting of philosophical archaeology ido govrin delineates how this overarching method of historical inquiry has today become associated to a large extent with the work of giorgio agamben and how it constitutes agamben s philosophy of history in particular as befits a book situated at an intellectual crossroads that brings together a range of discourses philosophy history aesthetics theology and philology govrin conceives of philosophical archaeology as a multifaceted concept on a broad scale the discussion slides along the length of the multilateral fault line and into the related fields of contemporary art and art history theory in doing so it illuminates the potential for philosophical archaeology as an artistic modus operandi in the broader context of contemporary art to expand our conception of history and historiographic research and for this sense of history to expand our conception of art in turn at stake in this consideration is the possibility of a new materially based philosophy of history recalling the short lived bureau de recherches surréalistes of 1924 1925 part information centre and public relations office and part surrealist archive mark dion has trawled the manchester museum s own collections and found the raw material for this book and a new installation in the museum museums attempts to classify and present the world in miniature inevitably mean that much of their collections are forgotten and marginalized renowned for his work exploring taxonomy archaeology and ecology mark dion in his bureau documents his opportunistic encounters with the museum of manchester s neglected drawers and overlooked recesses that are home to redundant labels orphaned mounts defunct teaching models botanical freaks egyptian fakes and the minutiae that have fallen through the cracks of museum practice and lain abandoned dion s bureau of the centre for the study of surrealism and its legacy is both a repository for the detritus of museum life and a working process classifying the museum s un classifiable whilst exploring the bureaucratic workings of the institution publisher s statement moving beyond existing scholarship this book connects photography archives ecology and historical change and critically applies the anthropocene as framework to the in depth study of artists projects it discards single modes of seeing environmental transformations in favour of a multiple and de centred environmental imagination bergit arends uses multidisciplinary perspectives to view localized environmental social and political issues through research based artistic practices the book not only makes available original research into newly and recently discovered archives of ecological and historical change but also shows how this research is manifest in exhibition formats this book presents international transhistorical projects by contemporary visual artists who use archives together with photography as documentary and performative media for the comparative study of environments and places a wide array of artists from diverse backgrounds working primarily in europe and north america from the 1970s to the present day are discussed and set in relation to anthropocene
