blending global scope with local depth this book throws new light on important themes spanning four centuries and vast space it combines the history of ideas with particular histories of encounters between european voyagers and indigenous people in oceania island southeast asia new guinea australia new zealand and the pacific islands post critical museology considers what the role of the public and the experience of audiences means to the everyday work of the art museum it does this from the perspectives of the art museum itself as well as from the visitors it seeks through the analysis of material gathered from a major collaborative research project carried out at tate britain in london the book develops a conceptual reconfiguration of the relationship between art culture and society in which questions about the art museum's relationship to global migration and the new media ecologies are examined it suggests that whilst european museums have previously been studied as institutions of collection heritage and tradition however modern their focus it is now better to consider them as distributive networks in which value travels along transmedial and transcultural lines post critical museology is intended as a contribution to progressive museological thinking and practice and calls for a new alignment of academics and professionals in what it announces as post critical museology an alignment that is committed to rethinking what an art museum in the twenty first century could be as well as what knowledge and understanding its future practitioners might draw upon in a rapidly changing social and cultural context the book aims to be essential reading in the growing field of museum studies it will also be of professional interest to all those working in the cultural sphere including museum professionals policy makers and art managers this book addresses how our revisionary practices account for relations between texts and how they are read it offers an overarching philosophy of revision concerning works of fiction fact and faith revealing unexpected insights about the philosophy of language the metaphysics of fact and fiction and the history and philosophy of science and religion using the novels of j r r tolkien as exemplars the authors introduce a fundamental distinction between the purely physical and the linguistic aspects of texts they then demonstrate how two competing theories of reference descriptivism and referentialism are instead constitutive of a single semantic account needed to explain all kinds of revision the authors also propose their own metaphysical foundations of fiction and fact the next part of the book brings the authors philosophy of revision into dialogue with thomas kuhn s famous analysis of factual and specifically scientific change it also discusses a complex episode in the history of paleontology demonstrating how scientific and popular texts can diverge over time finally the authors expand their philosophy of revision to religious texts arguing that rather than being distinct such texts are always read as other kinds that faith tends to be more important as evidence for religious texts than for others and that the latter explains why religious communities tend to have remarkable historical longevity revising fiction fact and faith offers a unique and comprehensive account of the philosophy of revision it will be of interest to a wide range of scholars and advanced students working in philosophy of language metaphysics philosophy of literature literary theory and criticism and history and philosophy of science and religion intercultural encounters are part of our everyday lives with or without globalisation and internationalisation in the contemporary world encounters with people from other cultural backgrounds have become part of our everyday lives these intercultural encounters may be used as an opportunity to learn about other cultures to develop our capacities for effective and respectful communication to think about our own cultural affiliations and to reflect on ways in which we might take action for the common good the autobiography of intercultural encounters aie is an educational resource that can be used by learners to achieve all of these outcomes it supports learners in thinking about and learning from intercultural encounters that they have experienced either face to face through visual media such as television films magazines or through the internet the present volume contains an updated and revised edition of the original aie which supports learners reflections on face to face intercultural encounters there are two versions of the aie a standard version for those who can complete it and a younger learners version for use by children who need support from an adult in thinking about intercultural encounters both versions are accompanied by notes for facilitators which explain in detail how the aie may be used these new editions have been fully updated and aligned with the council of europe s reference framework of competences for democratic culture and may be used by educators and learners in primary secondary and higher education and in non formal and informal education
