originally published in english in 1988 joseph ratzinger s eschatology remains internationally recognized as a leading text on the last things heaven and hell purgatory and judgment death and the immortality of the soul this highly anticipated second edition includes a new preface by joseph ratzinger pope benedict xvi and a supplement to the bibliography by theologian peter a casarella eschatology presents a balanced perspective of the doctrine at the center of christian belief the church s faith in eternal life recognizing the task of contemporary eschatology as to marry perspectives so that person and community present and future are seen in their unity joseph ratzinger brings together recent emphasis on the theology of hope for the future with the more traditional elements of the doctrine his book has proven to be as timeless as it is timely what can christian theology claim about the place of other religions in god s providential plan for humanity how can it reconcile the universality of god s saving plan and the particularity of christ and the church what meaning is left to christian existence and mission in a religiously pluralist world as priest theologian cardinal archbishop and pope joseph ratzinger reflected on these difficult questions for more than half a century and in a variety of contexts proffering an array of profound answers that are dispersed across his substantial literary corpus in ratzinger on religious pluralism sameer advani assembles and synthesizes these reflections and answers of the late pontiff providing a systematic study of ratzinger's theology of religions that attends to the scope of his larger historical philosophical and theological concerns the first part analyzes ratzinger's critical engagement with various paradigms of religious pluralism whose accounts of religion christianity and non christian religions he found both phenomenologically and theologically wanting the second part in turn explores ratzinger's positive proposal for a theology of religions which locates both christianity and non christian religions against the larger backgrounds of anthropological unity the human search for truth and divine providence advani argues that while ratzinger rejected the idea that other religions are salvific or on par with christianity he recognized both their important role in god's providential plan and their suitedness to an assumption into the church through mutual albeit asymmetric purification and enrichment in hope and otherness jakob wirén analyses the place and role of the religious other in contemporary eschatology in connection with this theme he examines and compares different levels of inclusion and exclusion in christian muslim and jewish eschatologies he argues that a distinction should be made in approaches to this issue between soteriological openness and eschatological openness by going beyond christian theology and also looking to muslim and jewish sources and by combining the question of the religious other with eschatology wirén explores ways of articulating christian eschatology in light of religious otherness and provides a new and vital slant to the threefold paradigm of exclusivism inclusivism and pluralism that has been prevalent in the theology of religions jakob wirén's study pushes forward the frontiers of three disciplines all at the same time theology of religions comparative religions and eschatology this is a challenging and important book gavin d costa university of bristol professor of catholic theology 2017 this book explores of the status of religious others in christian eschatology and of eschatology itself as a privileged place for reflecting on religious otherness wren mines not only christian but also jewish and muslim sources to develop an inclusive eschatology hope and otherness thus represents an important contribution to both theology of religions and comparative theology catherine cornille boston college professor of comparative theology 2017

since the calls of the second vatican council roman catholic theologians have sought to overcome an overarching problem facing jewish christian relations the concept of supersessionism the idea that god has revoked the spiritual and historical promises made to the jewish people in favour of granting those same privileges to a predominantly gentile church israel the church and millenarianism breaks new ground by applying an ancient principle to the problem of israel s replacement the early church s promotion of millennialism utilizing the best in patristic research aguzzi argues that these earliest christian traditions made room for the future of israel because christ s reign in the church was viewed as provisional to his historical reign on earth israel s role in salvation history was and is not yet complete aguzzi s research also opens the door for a greater catholic understanding of the millennial principle not shying away from its validity and relevance for understanding the importance of safeguarding jewish particularity while concluding that the synagogue and the church are indeed on a parallel trajectory what will their israel s acceptance be but life from the dead romans 11 15 ultimately the divine will is fulfilled through both christian and jewish means in history while each community is dependent in different ways upon the unfolding of god s future and the coming parousia of christ in Mary's bodily assumption Matthew Levering presents a contemporary explanation and defense of the Catholic doctrine of Mary's bodily assumption. He asks how does the church justify a doctrine that does not have explicit biblical or first century historical evidence to support it with the goal of exploring this question more deeply. He divides his discussion into two sections: one historical and the other systematic. Levering's historical section aims to retrieve the rich Mariological doctrine of the mid-twentieth century. He introduces the development of Mariology in Catholic magisterial documents, focusing on Pope Pius XII's encyclical Munificentissimus Deus of 1950 in which the bodily assumption of Mary was dogmatically defined, and two later magisterial documents: Vatican II's Lumen Gentium and Pope John Paul II's Redemptoris Mater. Levering addresses the work of the neo-scholastic theologians Joseph Duhr, Alois Janssens, and Réginald Garrigou Lagrange before turning to the great theologians of the Nouvelle Théologie: Karl Rahner, Hans Urs von Balthasar, Louis Bouyer, Joseph Ratzinger, and their emphasis on biblical typology, using John Henry Newman as a guide. Levering organizes his systematic section by the three pillars of the doctrine on which Mary's assumption rests: biblical typology, the church as authoritative interpreter of divine revelation under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, and the fittingness of Mary's assumption in relation to the other mysteries of faith. Levering's ecumenical contribution is a significant engagement with Protestant biblical scholars and theologians; it is also a reclamation of Mariology as a central topic in Catholic theology.

In the twentieth century Christian eschatology, the doctrine about the final reality, became a storm center for Christian systematic theologians because of the rediscovery of the eschatological character of Jesus Christ. In the twenty-first century, Christian theologians continue to wrestle with the claims of Christian eschatology because of a postmodern suspicion of eschatological certainty.

claims about a future that is after all objectively unavailable yet still of great human concern human beings live on hope for the future an eschatological imagination recognizes the problem of the future for christian eschatology building on the major theological writings of david tracy it offers a revised way of thinking and living eschatologically in the form of an eschatological imagination as a rhetoric of virtue an exhortation to live in christian hope in a postmodern world and into an objectively unavailable and uncertain future within such a rhetoric hope becomes action not mere sentiment that seeks to create a christian eschatological future this text offers an introduction to the central theme of christian eschatology the doctrine and study of what christian s hope for as they follow the way taught by the prophets and saints and above all opened up in the paschal mystery of jesus of nazareth hoping for life after death a sage once said is not a particularly religious action here anthony kelly examines the concept of hope in general and how eschatology enlarges the scope of what human s anticipate in ways that transcend mere continuation of life after life kelly helps the reader see that christian hope involves much more than hope for personal immortality a leading scholar of christology shows why a theologian must be a master of holy writ and why a biblical scholar must be a theologian william m thompson makes a convincing case for keeping theology and scriptural studies in fruitful combination and dialogue the struggle for theology s soul is a rehabilitation of the way theologians and biblical scholars practiced their craft in the greater history of the church but with a second naivete having attempted to pass through the challenges of contemporary thought it honors a certain kind of specialization of disciplines but also argues that it is healthy to have works which are more integrative as well each style needs and corrects the other the book is somewhat contentious and definitely passionate christology argues the author is at bottom a contest over holy writ and this contest constitutes theology s soul because christ is theology s center generalists and specialists alike will find much to ponder discuss and debate in the struggle for theology s soul among the multitude of issues addressed by authors in the burgeoning field of science and theology the most fundamental is that of divine action in the world how might believers best understand god as truly acting in the realms studied by the natural sciences several specific questions arise in this context what implications do contemporary theories about the origins of the universe have for the doctrine of god as creator of heaven and earth when cosmologists and biologists talk about the evolution not only of galaxies and solar systems but also of various forms of life on earth what does this say about the doctrine of divine providence if human beings evolved from earlier organisms as the vast majority of scientists believe what changes might this portend for the way we talk about the human soul and the way we either affirm or deny a spiritual element in other living beings if scientists are correct in predicting the eventual demise of the solar system how might these predictions affect the way we understand the traditional judeo christian hope for a new heaven and a new earth these are some of the questions that this book sets out to answer though many of the issues are rooted in christian theology the book addresses them in a broadly ecumenical way that will be both informative and thought provoking for anyone interested in the lively contemporary debate between theology and the natural sciences
