this thesis examines the concept of mission investing mi and thus the role the mission of nonprofit organizations npo plays when fungible financial assets are invested in contrast to the traditional separation of programming and investment policies mi stands for the explicit inclusion of the organization s mission into financial decisionmaking although initially developed in the context of grantmaking foundations the concept of mi can be applied to any npo with fungible assets npo as mission driven organizations differ substantially from regular for profit companies in the way they evaluate organizational performance therefore questions regarding the assessment of desirability and the evaluation of investment opportunities arise this thesis consists of four articles which all answer a different sub question regarding the concept and logic of mi and thus adds to a more profound understanding of nonprofit investment management and complements existing theoretical analyses with empirical findings on value based portfolio selection in their exploratory approach these four essays contribute to a holistic understanding of how investment decisions within a mission oriented organization should be planned and evaluated independent of their social or financial nature in applying a logic framework approach it is shown that the strict separation of social such as grants and financial investments within npo leads to a misallocation of scarce resources only by judging both types of investments based on their combined ultimate mission related impact an optimal allocation of the initial inputs can be achieved thanks to the linkage of both social and financial investments the evaluation of investments within npo is not about either financial return or impact only but everything in between i e hybrid investments such as venture philanthropy or impact investments further this thesis also bridges linguistic gaps between nonprofit research and finance and supplies practitioners with insights on how to structure investment processes in npo and what effects they may expect from mission based portfolio selection this allows for a more effective allocation of tax exempt funds in terms of achieving higher degrees of mission effectiveness
