the international handbook of research in professional and practice based learning discusses what constitutes professionalism examines the concepts and practices of professional and practice based learning including associated research traditions and educational provisions it also explores professional learning in institutions of higher and vocational education as well the practice settings where professionals work and learn focusing on both initial and ongoing development and how that learning is assessed the handbook features research from expert contributors in education studies of the professions and accounts of research methodologies from a range of informing disciplines it is organized in two parts the first part sets out conceptions of professionalism at work how professions work and learning can be understood and examines the kinds of institutional practices organized for developing occupational capacities the second part focuses on procedural issues associated with learning for and through professional practice and how assessment of professional capacities might progress the key premise of this handbook is that during both initial and ongoing professional development individual learning processes are influenced and shaped through their professional environment and practices moreover in turn the practice and processes of learning through practice are shaped by their development all of which are required to be understood through a range of research orientations methods and findings this handbook will appeal to academics working in fields of professional practice including those who are concerned about developing these capacities in their students in addition students and research students will also find this handbook a key reference resource to the field there is considerable and growing interest in professionals learning across their working lives the growth in this interest is likely premised upon the increasing percentage of those who are being employed under the designation as professionals or paraprofessional workers in advanced industrial economies part of being designated in this way is a requirement to be able to work autonomously and in a relatively self regulated manner of course many other kinds of employment also demand such behaviours however there is particular attention being given to the ongoing development of workers who are seen to make crucial decisions and take actions about health legal and financial matters part of this attention derives from expectations within the community that those who are granted relative autonomy and are often paid handsomely should be current and informed in their decision making then like all other workers professionals are required to maintain their competence in the face of changing requirements for work consequently a volume that seeks to inform how best this ongoing learning can be understood supported and assisted is most timely and welcomed this volume seeks to elaborate professional learning through a consideration of the concept of authentic professional learning what is proposed here is that in contrast to programmatic approaches towards professional development the process of continuing professional learning is a personal complex and diverse process that does not lend itself to easy prescription or the realisation of others intentions
