winner of the 2009 gradiva award theoretical category presented by the national association for the advancement of psychoanalysis esther rashkin argues that psychoanalysis galvanizes as no other discipline can an understanding of texts in their social historical and political contexts demonstrating that close reading can be a radical political practice she exposes heretofore unseen ideologies concealed in works of film and literature from last tango in paris to the picture of dorian gray from barthes s mythologies and balzac s sarrasine to babette s feast psychoanalytic concepts such as identification with the aggressor the crypt cryptonymy illness of mourning and the phantom allow rashkin to reveal how shameful and unspeakable secrets propel the narratives she examines in the process she convincingly makes the case for a new practice of psychoanalytic cultural studies a practice that fully engages with the politicized discourses anti semitism racism colonialism censorship that mark a text s location in history approaching early modern spies espionage and secret diplomacy as central elements in wartime communication networks the thirteen contributions to this volume examine different kinds of espionage economic espionage political espionage etc identify different types of spies diplomats postmasters court musicians cooks and prostitutes and reflect the multiple meanings and functions of information obtained through the many practices of spying in the early modern period drawing on examples from a wide range of states and empires the volume looks into recruitment strategies and cryptography highlights processes of professionalization and traces the reputation of spies ranging from the honourable to the villain family secrets and the psychoanalysis of narrative is the first book to explore the implications of the psychoanalytic theory of the phantom for the study of narrative literature a phantom is formed when a shameful unspeakable secret is unwittingly transmitted through cryptic language and behavior transgenerationally from one family member to another the haunted individual to whom the encrypted secret is communicated becomes the unwitting medium for someone else s voice and the result is speech and conduct that appear incongruous or obsessive in a variety of ways through close readings of texts by conrad villiers de l isle adam balzac james and poe esther rashkin reveals how shameful secrets concealed within the unspoken family histories of fictive characters can be reconstructed from their linguistic traces and can be shown not only to drive the characters speech and behavior but also to generate their narratives first articulated by the french psychoanalysts nicolas abraham and maria torok the theory of the phantom here represents a radical departure from freudian lacanian and other psychoanalytic approaches to literary interpretation in rashkin s hands it also provides a response to structuralist and poststructuralist critiques of character analysis an alternative to deconstructive strategies of reading and a new vantage point from which to consider problems of intertextuality authorship and the formation and origins of narrative originally published in 1992 the princeton legacy library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of princeton university press these editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions the goal of the princeton legacy library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by princeton university press since its founding in 1905
