the aim of the report is to highlight what the committee felt were the most important and controversial measures of the bill to lay out the arguments for and against and to reach a tentative conclusion in time for the second reading debate the committee concluded that the bill should be given a second reading but it will need close examination in committee doubt is expressed whether a bill of this length and with major implications for civil liberties should be passed through the commons in such a short period and with so little time for detailed examination the legislation will pass through the commons in two weeks with only three days of debate by all mps the report recommends that the government should seek an alternative measure in consultation with other european partners which avoids the need to exercise the power of indefinite detention it expresses reluctant acceptance that there may be a small category of persons who will have to be detained but states that this should only be exercised as a last resort for those who cannot be prosecuted extradited or deported the report recommends that a sunset clause should apply to the immigration and asylum provisions of the bill which would mean detention powers would lapse after five years a full parliamentary debate would then be needed for an annual renewal order rather than a 90 minute debate in a standing committee the report also states that there is insufficient evidence to justify the extension of the law of incitement to include religious hatred as it is doubtful that this will work in practice
