in religion and the arts history and method diane apostolos cappadona presents an overview of the 19th century origins of this discrete field of study and its methodological journey to the present day through issues of repatriation museum exhibitions and globalization apostolos cappadona suggests that the fluidity and flexibility of the study of religion and the arts has expanded like an umbrella since the 1970s and the understanding that art was simply a visual exegesis of texts to now support the study of material popular and visual culture as well as gender she also delivers a careful analysis of the evolution of thought from traditional iconographies to the transformations once scholars were influenced by response theory and challenged by globalization and technology religion and the arts history and method offers an indispensable introduction to the questions and perspectives essential to the study of this field religion in its most authentic part is an art form religion does what art does this idea is richly illustrated and supported by materials of diverse origin the vast range of the author s experience in the arts and in religious texts and works of aesthetics allows him to lay hold of a great mass of disparate material and to bring out new dimensions in all of it he always has just the example he needs at his fingertips a tibetan buddhist text next to a french impressionist painting and a remark about early banogu counterpoint and each example is seen in a new and interesting way through this gentle yoking together of heterogeneous materials common roots are discovered most studies of art and religion describe and explain them as data thomas martland identifies them as expressions of ideals and asks what they are when they are authentic rather than merely what they are when they are self identified as art and religion this is an identification through assessment not an aristotelian classification and the means of assessment are provided the field of art and religion is fast becoming one of the most dynamic areas of religious studies uniquely the art of the sacred explores the relationship between religion and the visual arts and vice versa within christianity and other major religious traditions it identifies and describes the main historical theological sociological and aesthetic dimensions of religious art with particular attention to popular as well as high culture and within societies of the developing world it also attempts to locate and predict the forms and functions of such art in a changing contemporary context of obligation modernity secularism and fundamentalism the author concentrates on four chief dimensions where religious art and religious belief converge the iconographic the didactic the institutional and the aesthetic this clear well organised and imaginative treatment of the subject should prove especially attractive to students of religion and visual culture as well as to artists and art historians the artistic and religious traditions of africa constitute a primary expression of the intellectual and cultural vitality of this vast and fascinating continent art plays a vital role especially when oral traditions dominate in expressing and communicating ideas about the relationships between the human spiritual and natural worlds however despite the ritual and symbolic significance of many artistic works the interactive and interdependent relationship between art and religion in the african context remains understudied and misunderstood this book draws on the methodologies of several disciplines to provide a greater understanding of the philosophical and religious aspects of artistic works and to challenge western perceptions of what is important case studies and examples reflect the geographical material and gendered diversity of africa s visual and performing arts and highlight the changes imposed by christianity islam and the newer religious movements in post colonial africa at a time when religion and science are thought to be at loggerheads art is widely hailed as religion's natural spiritual ally philosophy art and religion investigates the extent to which this is true it charts the way in which modern conceptions of art often marginalize the sacred arts construing choral and instrumental music painting and iconography poetry drama and architecture as applied arts that necessarily fall short of the ideal of art for art's sake drawing on both history of art and philosophical aesthetics graham sets out the historical context in which the arts came to free themselves from religious patronage in order to conceptualize the cultural context in which religious art currently finds itself the book then relocates religious art within the aesthetics of everyday life subsequent chapters systematically explore each of the sacred arts using a wide range of illustrative examples to uncover the ways in which artworks can illuminate religious faith and religious content can lend artworks a deeper dimension the vivid art forms of australia melanesia polynesia and new zealand are rooted in their religious cultures this relationship is still apparent in the new and ever evolving art forms of the modern pacific world contributors include doug and linda altshuler mircea eliade langdon gilkey barbara novak and many others a seminal work widely adopted religious studies review excerpt from art religion to artists and lovers of the beautiful i want to speak my definite expectation of a time soon to come again when patrons of the arts will see in the religious institution an incomparable opportunity for the most pervasive influence of beauty upon the people every church building in village or city should itself be a noble work of art and the arts have each a proper place in the fostering of the supreme experience of worship i am led to say these things by the very oppressive burden of disunity in the spiritual life of the community and the time there cannot be an age of great artistic brilliance until we reach a more nearly harmonious faith i am happy in the simple daily work of a parish minister but i am unhappy and deeply disquieted amidst the discord in the religious world i wish i could have mental fellowship with the catholics i wish i could have it with more of my protestant brethren not merely for the easement of my own aesthetic discomfort but for the sake of countless others there can be no cure for many souls until we are together about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works this volume offers 37 original essays from leading scholars on the crucial topics issues methods and resources for studying and teaching religion and the arts its extensive bibliography essays treating the history of the field and individual case studies which demonstrate current methodologies by noted scholars in the field make this an invaluable resource to the university seminary and museum alike is contemporary art a friend or foe of christianity art historian critic and curator daniel siedell addresses this question and presents a framework for interpreting art from a christian worldview in god in the gallery a christian embrace of modern art as such it is an excellent companion to francis schaeffer s classic art and the bible divided into three parts theology history and practice god in the gallery demonstrates that art is in conversation with and not opposed to the christian faith in addition this book is beautifully enhanced with images from such artists as andy warhol jackson pollock enrique martínez celaya and others readers of this book will include professors students artists and anyone interested in christianity and culture pictures and popery investigates the reception of great renaissance works of art and wider cultural activities it also reintroduces the accepted nature of english identity and religious attitudes into the broad historical narrative in so doing this book offers a genuinely new and stimulating insight into the cultural religious and social development of late stuart and early hanoverian england a fresh approach to the connection between art and religion that seeks to redefine their relationship in the contemporary age the relationship between art and religion has been long complex and often conflicted and it has given rise to many of the greatest works in the history of art artists today continue to reflect seriously upon religious traditions themes and institutions suggesting a new approach to spirituality that is more considered than confrontational art religion in the 21st century is the first in depth study to survey an international roster of artists who use their work to explore religion s cultural social political and psychological impact on today s world an introduction outlines the debates and controversies that the art religion connection has precipitated throughout history each of the book s ten chapters introduces a theme ideas of the creation the figure of jesus the sublime wonder diaspora and exile religious and political conflict ritual practice mourning and monumentalizing and spiritual dwelling in the body and in space followed by a selection of works of art that illustrates that theme artists discussed include vanessa beecroft maurizio cattelan makoto fujimura david lachapelle annette messenger jason rhoades andres serrano and zeng fanzhi art and belief explores communication between faiths through an examination of contemporary artistic practice the book discusses how a range of artists formulate their worldview and what motivates them to engage in dialogue these artists are engaged in a wide range of artistic forms and practice and come to dialogue from diverse religious positions the aim of the book is to question the assumptions of interreligious dialogue as a largely intellectual exercise in defining the religious other and to explore dialogue as a manifestation of interpersonal ethics as an artist deborah sokolove has often been surprised and dismayed by the unexamined attitudes and assumptions that the church holds about how artists think and how art functions in human life by investigating these attitudes and tying them to concrete examples sokolove hopes to demystify art to bring art down to earth where theologians pastors and ordinary christians can wrestle with its meanings participate in its processes and understand its uses in showing the commonalities and distinctions among the various ways that artists themselves approach their work sanctifying art can help the church talk about the arts in ways that artists will recognize as a member of both the church and the art world sokolove is well positioned to bridge the gap between the habits of thought that inform the discourse of the art world and those quite different ideas about art that are taken for granted by many christians when art is understood as intellectual technical and physical as well as ethereal mysterious and sacred we will see it as an integral part of our life together in christ fully human and fully divine images have caused uproar violence and even casualties in the meeting of religions and cultures during the last years iconoclasm and iconolatry are on the agenda once more late modern culture is dominated by images and is understood in concepts such as aestheticization and symbolisation theological debate is likewise performed through images symbols and rituals rather than through doctrines and beliefs in this book authors from various research backgrounds seek to clarify the terms of reference and explore the diversity and disagreements in their use from a christian perspective bernini and pallavicino the artist and the jesuit cardinal are closely related figures at the papal courts of urban viii and alexander vii at which bernini was the principal artist the analysis of pallavicino s writings offers a new perspective on bernini s art and artistry and allow us to understand the visual arts in papal rome as a making manifest of the fundamental truths of faith pallavicino s views on art and its effects differ fundamentally from the perspective developed in bernini s biographies offering a perspective on the tension between artist and patron work and message in pallavicino s writings the visual arts emerge as being intrinsically bound up with the very core of religion involving questions of idolatry mimesis and illusionism that would prove central to the aesthetic debates of the eighteenth century drawing from sources including the ethology of art and the cognitive science of religion this book proposes an improved understanding of both art and religion as behaviors developed in the process of human evolution looking at both art and religion as closely related but not identical behaviors a more coherent definition of religion can be formed that avoids pitfalls such as the eurocentric characterization of religion as belief or the dismissal of the category as nothing more than false belief or the product of scholarly invention the book integrates highly relevant insights from the ethology and anthropology of art particularly the identification of the special by ellen dissanayake and art as agency by alfred gell with insights from among others ann taves who similarly identified specialness as characteristic of religion it integrates these insights into a useful and accurate understanding and explanation of the relationship of art and religion and of religion as a human behavior this in turn is used to suggest how art can contribute to the development and maintenance of religions the innovative combination of art science and religion in this book makes it a vital resource for scholars of religion and the arts aesthetics religious studies religion and science and religious anthropology when art disrupts religion lays bare the power of encounters with the arts to unsettle and overturn deeply ingrained religious beliefs and practices grounded in the accounts of more than 80 evangelicals who experienced such a sea change of religious identity the book bridges the gap between aesthetic theory and lived religion while exploring the interrelationship of religion and art in the modern west it is hoped that these articles will help christians think responsibly about psychotherapy
