excerpt from the spirit of modern philosophy an essay in the form of lectures the friend to whom i have dedicated this book asked me a little more than two years ago for some account of the more significant spiritual possessions of a few prominent modern thinkers i was to tell what i could about these possessions in comparatively brief and untechnical fashion with some misgivings as to my right and many misgivings as to my power to set forth any portion of the content of modern philosophy in the compass of a few short lectures i still undertook the task and soon found it unexpectedly absorbing the company of friends for whom i was to prepare my lectures proved to be more numerous than i had foreseen the undertaking became more elaborate and thorough going than i had any way intended and the exceeding kindness and earnestness of my hearers called ere long for a response that taxed all my poor wit to the utmost my lectures once finished in their first form under the general title representative modern thinkers and problems i was asked to read them yet again before another equally cordial and stimulating company in another city the re reading suggested of course much revision about the publisher forgotten books
