the stories we read as children are the ones that stay with us the longest and from the nineteenth century until the 1950s stories about schools held a particular fascination many will remember the goings on at such earnest establishments as tom brown's rugby, St Dominic's Greyfriars, the chalet school, Malory Towers and Linbury Court in the second part of the twentieth century with more liberal social attitudes and the advent of secondary education for all these moral tales lost their appeal and the school story very nearly died out more recently however a new generation of compromised schoolboy and schoolgirl heroes Pennington Tyke, Tiler Harry Potter and Millie Roads have given it a new and challenging relevance focusing mainly on novels written for young people from morality to mayhem charts the fall and rise of the school story from the grim accounts of Victorian times to the magic and mayhem of our own age in doing so it considers how fictional schools not only reflect but sometimes influence real life this captivating study will appeal to those interested in children's literature and education both students and the general reader taking us on a not altogether comfortable trip down memory lane from New York Times bestselling author Jonathan Maberry comes a standalone supernatural thriller Ink about a memory thief who feeds on the most precious of dreams tattoo artist Patty Cakes has her dead daughter's face tattooed on the back of her hand day by day it begins to fade taking with it all of Patty's memories of her daughter all she's left with is the certain knowledge she has forgotten her lost child the awareness of that loss is tearing her apart Monk Addison is a private investigator whose skin is covered with the tattooed faces of murder victims he is a predator who hunts for killers and the ghosts of all of those dead people haunt his life some of those faces have begun to fade too destroying the very souls of the dead all through the town of Pine Deep people are having their most precious memories stolen the monster seems to target the lonely the disenfranchised the people who need memories to anchor them to this world something is out there something cruel and evil is feeding on the memories erasing them from the hearts and minds of people like Patty and Monk and others Ink is the story of a few lonely damaged people hunting for a memory thief when all you have are memories there is no greater horror than forgetting

Golding's provocative novel is traced to its origins in the culture of postwar Britain

Seminar paper from the year 2009 in the subject English Literature Works Grade 2.0 University of Duisburg-Essen Language English Abstract In Ian McEwan's The Cement Garden a prominent interpretative signpost is bestowed by the literary allusion to the story tradition in which children are put into a situation in which they must fend for themselves the key reference here is to William Golding's Lord of the Flies a pessimistic tale of savage that emerges within the child when free of social controls however the children in McEwan's novel are not entirely cut from society they try to keep their sense of family together by entombing their dead mother in concrete in the cellar of their isolated house moreover all of them are influenced by adult codes of familial behavior these codes become distorted in their independent existence a process that culminates in the incestuous involvement of the eldest siblings while sue the younger sister of the first person narrator jack does not change visibly jack himself runs through a metamorphosis in terms of hygiene and outward appearance as such tom the youngest starts dressing up as a girl and later on behaves like a toddler and julie the eldest takes over the responsibility for the others and turns from sister to mother at the end of the story she even becomes jack s lover the following paper will discuss the different family roles of julie first there will be a chapter on how jack views his elder sister this shall function as an overview of julie s character the main part of this paper will present julie s changing family roles from sister to mother and finally to lover the oedipal theme linked to that will not be made a subject of discussion in this paper a conclusion will follow the summary in the final chapter
