an eye for an eye the balance of scales for centuries these and other traditional concepts exemplified the public s perception of justice today popular culture including television shows like law and order informs the public s vision but do age old symbols portrayals in the media and existing systems truly represent justice in all of its nuanced forms or do we need to think beyond these notions in social justice theories issues and movements loretta capeheart and dragan milovanovic respond to the need for a comprehensive introduction to this topic the authors argue that common conceptions of criminal justice which accept for the most part a politically established definition of crime are too limited instead they show the relevancy of history political economy culture critique and cross cultural engagement to the advancement of justice drawing on contemporary issues ranging from globalization to the environment this essential textbook ideal for course use encourages practitioners reformists activists and scholars to question the limits of the law in its present state in order to develop a fairer system at the local national and global levels arguably the most transformative force in contemporary society is the commitment to justice through diversity a prime example is the change justice through diversity has wrought on who enters teaches and administers the university it has changed the content of what is taught and the mission statements that define the purpose of higher education what is rarely defined however is justice and how it is related to diversity if justice is equality are all differences equal are all differences in race gender sexual orientation national origin ethnicity religion and culture equal should such differences be weighted differently and thus hierarchically on what basis are those differences to be weighted and ranked to ensure equality justice through diversity brings together a who s who of contemporary scholars to explore these questions and others in an attempt to understand one of the central commitments in the modern world speaking with understanding and force tillich offers a basic analysis of love power justice and all concepts fundamental in the mutual relations of people of social groups and of humankind to god his concern is to penetrate to the essential or ontological foundation of the meaning of each of these words war peace and reconciliation invites christians and the churches into a conversation over how to think about war from a standpoint in faith it asks how reconciliation which is central to christian life and doctrine can engage the realities of war without surrendering its fundamental affirmations it defines these realities politically by discussing the meanings of power peace as a particular organization of power and the international system the study of war and politics is unavoidable as is the engagement with reconciliation because all human existence and activity exist in the context of the gracious work of god to renew and reconcile the fallen creation the inquiry is theocentric and christocentric it culminates in a call to the churches to examine all their practices in the light of this perspective
