today s leaders are facing unprecedeted challenges that are causing them to quit burnout compromise and even commit suicide this current generation of leaders are functioning in an increasingly complex and rapidly evolving environment dr wade runge understands the unique stress leaders are experiencing in a culture that is calling for leaders to perform at their best at every moment leaders are expected to be available and accessible at any given moment but the real question who is helping them navigate the choppy waters they are experiencing his experience and acumen concerning leadership has been refined out of the need to be able to adapt to adverse conditions we are living in uncertain times that calls for leaders to rise in the midst of chaos dr runge's background from combat in the military to planting churches and helping pastors in crisis has prepared him for this time this transformational book on leadership was written as a manual to help leaders be better prepared for the challenges of the times the five principles take the reader on a journey from the battlefield to the landscape of ministry challenges to better understand why a good shepherd must smell like sheep in order for any organization to thrive in uncertain times it will require sheep and shepherds working together to win this book is for the person who is serious about growing leading and winning in these uncertain times good shepherds smell like sheep is a compelling guide for the challenges of today while empowering leadership to win any battle they may be facing tomorrow when it comes to mentoring women face more barriers than men here's how men can help change that increasingly new employees and junior members of any profession are encouraged sometimes stridently to find a mentor four decades of research reveals that the effects of mentorship can be profound and enduring strong mentoring relationships have the capacity to transform individuals and entire organizations but the mentoring landscape is unequal evidence consistently shows that women face more barriers in securing mentorships than men and when they do find a mentor they may reap a narrow range of both professional and psychological benefits athena rising is a book for men about how to eliminate this problem by mentoring women deliberately and effectively traditional notions of mentoring are modeled on male to male relationships yet women often report a desire for mentoring that addresses their interpersonal needs women want mentors who not only understand this but truly honor it coauthors w brad johnson and david g smith present a straightforward no nonsense manual for men working in all types of institutions organizations and businesses to become excellent mentors to women because as women succeed lean in and assume leading roles in any organization or work context the culture will become more egalitarian effective and prone to retaining top talent history provides numerous examples of leaders who failed at some point in their career yet went on to become great leaders their example demonstrates that experiencing failure does not necessarily equate to failed leadership leaders can and do recover from failure to become better leaders but how does this occur how does a leader turn the psychological trauma of failure into an important learning experience that leads to personal growth what leadership characteristics and actions are most important in recovering from a leadership failure this paper examines these questions along several major themes first the psychological trauma of failure and the pathways to post traumatic growth following failure second a study of how contemporary leaders grew from failure and third historical case studies on two strategic leaders who grew from the experience of failure ulysses s grant and dwight d eisenhower in conclusion the paper compares the lessons from these historical case studies to those drawn from the first two themes to identify the key leadership characteristics and actions that enable leaders to recover from failure
