this book is the first in a two volume project that provides the first systematic interpretation of Martin Heidegger's fundamental ontology as a critical social ontology it argues that fundamental ontology is at its core an emancipatory enterprise in that it is animated by an intent shared with critical theory viz to make philosophy concrete for the sake of individual and collective freedom focused on division one of being and time this volume maintains that the possibilities of individual emancipation and self actualization are inextricably bound to their environmental and intersubjective preconditions an adequate ontology of the self therefore is possible only as a social ontology to fulfill its emancipatory aims however it is necessary to show that the fact that individuals are always already appropriated by society does not preclude the possibility of authentic self appropriation hence this volume critically reconstructs the core commitments of the appropriative approach to social ontology and distinguishes between the foundational and peripheral aspects of fundamental ontology the final part addresses important criticisms that have impeded a fruitful dialogue between fundamental ontology and critical theory to clear the ground for a fresh re appraisal of the former as an emancipatory project originally published in 1993 this book explores the process by which individuals reconstruct the meaning and significance of past experience drawing on the lives of such notable figures as st augustine helen keller and philip roth as well as on the combined insights of psychology philosophy and literary theory the book sheds light on the intricacies and dilemmas of self interpretation in particular and interpretive psychological enquiry more generally the author draws upon selected mainly autobiographical literary texts in order to examine concretely the process of rewriting the self among the issues addressed are the relationship of rewriting the self to the concept of development the place of language in the construction of selfhood the difference between living and telling about it the problem of facts in life history narrative the significance of the unconscious in interpreting the personal past and the freedom of the narrative imagination alpha sigma nu national book award winner in 1994
