an imaginative and illuminating study finding is the first act places historical thinking in creative tension with literary appreciation the structures of jesus s parable of the hidden treasure matt 13 44 are examined by mapping its plot options finding acting buying in view of other jewish treasure stories and the vast array of treasure plots in world folklore startling differences emerge in the plot options chosen by Jesus that point to a new understanding of the directive to give up all one has for the kingdom of God why Jesus treasure parable for three reasons that I am aware of first the story has always fascinated me second in recent work on parables there has often been a tendency to concentrate especially on the longer parables of Jesus I wanted deliberately to move in the opposite direction and to give full emphasis to a very short parable third this particular parable in contrast for example to that of the mustard seed does not furnish much grist for the diachronic mill of biblical studies I was deliberately choosing an item which in isolation from its Matthean context could hardly sustain a monograph study along the standard lines of tradition criticism from the preface

This book examines illustrations created to accompany fictions written by several of the most popular authors published in Britain and America between 1885 and 1920 by studying the lavish illustrations that complemented not only initial serializations but also subsequent publications of fictions by H. Rider Haggard, Rudyard Kipling, James de Mille, Robert Louis Stevenson, and H. G. Wells. The book demonstrates the significance of images to the fin de siècle romance form in order to make fantastic plots seem possible. Graphic artists worked hand in hand with authors to not only fill gaps in audience understanding but also expand and deepen the meaning of these marvels. The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history, visual culture, illustration studies, British and American history, and British and American literature.
