Contours of Christian Theology is a series of concise introductory texts focused on the main themes of Christian theology. The authors introduce perennial questions and time-tested solutions while moving forward to explore contemporary issues and rework evangelical formulations of the faith. Series editor Gerald Bray is joined by a select group of respected teachers and theologians each committed to bringing students, pastors, and interested readers up to date on the many ongoing discussions in theology.

This book is addressed to Christian believers who are feeling the ambiguities and challenges of a life of faith. Many of them may be uncertain about the meaning of the faith which they profess. The familiar words that they hear in sermons and prayers seem at times to belong to a reality far removed from the actual world they live in. They need to discover a meaning of their faith that they can relate to their own life experience and their general knowledge of the world. This book is a collection of brief essays written in response to specific questions about the Christian faith: its vision of reality, the questions addressed here have arisen out of the experience of ordinary Christians trying to make sense of their faith. Some are asking about particular church words, some are expressing difficulties in believing, some are probing the paradoxes of Christian existence. The author responds as a professional theologian and priest writing in a non-technical way for fellow believers. His purpose is to make the best insights of sound theology available to them to minister to their faith life. Although many of the essays are limited in scope, there is a coherent understanding of the Christian faith that underlies all of them. Each essay is simply articulating part of that understanding in response to a specific question.

In a world ravaged by dehumanizing barbarism and torn by ideological conflict, writes Arthur Holmes, we have an obligation to rekindle and disseminate the Christian vision of a unified world view. But to live and think Christianity in today's world does not come easily. It means, says Holmes, ferreting out the influence of non-Christian assumptions and bringing distinctively Christian presuppositions to bear in their place.

contours of a world view which introduces the series sets the stage for this important task holmes discusses the nature of world views both secular and christian and the overall contours of a distinctively christian world view in relationship to the history of ideas as well as to the contemporary mind outlining a christian view of things as a live alternative to the naturalistic humanism prevalent today in this second edition of roger e olson s classic work he thematically traces the contours of christian belief down through the ages revealing a pattern of both unity and diversity he finds a consensus of teaching that is both unitive and able to incorporate a faithful diversity when not forced into the molds of false either or alternatives
