despite being known as the low countries belgium luxembourg and the netherlands are far from insignificant the benelux economic union which sought economic integration between the three countries in fact served as the model for the european union additionally each of the three boasts rich histories and what they lack in size or population they make up for in thriving cultural climates this absorbing volume pays each country its due surveying the lands societies traditions and histories that have elevated the low countries on the world stage

this resource describes in words and pictures the diversity of landscapes and people on earth it covers topics such as physical and environmental geography government and politics animal and plant life and farming and industry with contributions from 200 writers worldwide the aim of diversity in family formation is to examine changes in the start of the family formation process rather than giving a rough overview of demographic changes in many countries a comparison of differences in changes in family formation and fertility behaviour between belgium and the netherlands is interesting for various reasons first even though the economic and cultural differences between these countries are relatively small there is one important difference belgium is predominantly catholic whereas the netherlands has about equal proportions of catholics and protestants second if the second demographic transition implies that there is one common pattern of change in different european countries and that differences across countries are due to the fact that countries are in a different stage of the transition process and if it is assumed that the transition process started earlier in protestant countries than in catholic countries one would expect the netherlands to be in a further stage of the transition process than belgium thus an in depth comparison of changes in family formation and fertility behaviour between both countries may give us more insight in the question of whether there is one common transition process the comparison of fertility and family survey data in both countries brings us to the core question of whether there is one common explanation for differences between countries in various types of fertility and family behaviour under consideration namely fertility regulation the choice of living arrangement after leaving the parental home and the labour force participation of mothers this book addresses the many avenues that are still left unexplored when it comes to our understanding of the first world war in the low countries with the ongoing the centenary of the great war many events have been organized in the united kingdom to commemorate its military events its socio political consequences and its cultural legacy of these events very few have paid attention to the fates of belgium or the netherlands even though it was the invasion of belgium in august 1914 that was the catalyst for great britain declaring war the occupation of belgium had long term consequences for its people but much of the military and social history of the western front concentrates on northern france and the netherlands is largely forgotten as a nation affected by the first world war by opening the field beyond the military and beyond the front this collection explores the interdisciplinary and international nature of the great war
