the relationship between migration and development is becoming an important field of study yet the fundamentals analytical tools conceptual framework political stance are not being called into question or dialogue this volume provides a valuable alternative perspective to the current literature as the contributors explore the contradictory discourses about migration and the role these discourses play in perpetuating inequality and a global regime of militarized surveillance the assumptions surrounding the asymmetrical transfers of resources that accompany migration are deeply skewed and continue to reflect the interests of the most powerful states and the institutions that serve their interests those who seek to address the morass of development failure vitriolic attacks on immigrants or sanguine views about migrant agency are challenged by this volume to put aside their methodological nationalism and pursue alternative pathways out of the quagmire of poverty violence and fear that is enveloping the globe

a comparative analysis of the impact of the european union on central government administration uses a transformative perspective to examine changes as countries adapt to increased eu integration focusing on the processes of accumulation concentration and centralisation of capital this book explains the transnationalisation of capital and its impact on latin america and brazil the first chapter addresses the logic of these processes from a marxian perspective the second chapter shows how this movement of capital expands into some latin american countries and how it subsequently retracts in the 1990s process of global centralisation the third chapter evaluates latin american strategies to attract capital by taking a subordinate position to capital s global movement the last two chapters focus on brazil s development strategy in the face of the alternating expansion and contraction of capital and point out the vulnerability of latin american countries when their development is subordinate to transnational capital first published in portuguese as subordinação consentida capital multinacional no processo de acumulação da américa latina e brasil by annablume editora fapesp in 2006

this book offers a clear and concise introduction to transnational higher education drawing on research current sector guidance and policy it asks critical questions about the role and nature of transnational education motivations for engaging in transnational education how transnational education is quality assured and how it might develop in the future it unpacks some of the differences in practice and their inherent complexities in an accessible way encouraging the reader to consider their own role and context critical practice in higher education is a series which provides a scholarly and practical entry point for academics into key areas of higher education practice each book in the series explores an individual topic in depth providing an overview in relation to current thinking and practice informed by recent research the series will be of interest to those engaged in the study of higher education those involved in leading learning and teaching or working in academic development and individuals seeking to explore particular topics of professional interest through critical engagement this series aims to promote an expanded notion of being an academic connecting research teaching scholarship community engagement and leadership while developing confidence and authority having spent my time researching practitioner both host and overseas interactions in the i passionately believe that practitioner engagement and participation is fundamental to the successful delivery of any the initiative i am therefore delighted to endorse this book and recommend it to any practitioner who wishes to understand the phenomenon of the in greater detail to improve their knowledge and practice dr c m bordogna taking a fresh look at the impact of non state actors on world politics and on the foreign policies of states this book revives the debate on transnational relations which started in the 1970s this debate withered away in the face of state centered approaches but this book's new approach emphasizes the interaction of states and transnational actors arguing that domestic structures of the state as well as international institutions mediate the policy influence of transnational actors empirical chapters examine the european economic and monetary union us japanese transnational relations multinational corporations in east asia soviet and russian security policy democratization in eastern europe and ivory management in africa the book concludes with chapters discussing the theoretical implications of the findings in the empirical studies this book examines current policy discussions around the migration development nexus and subjects them to rigorous conceptual and empirical criticism through a transnational lens placing the current re discovery of migrants as agents of development nexus into theoretical and historical perspective
