in miyazawa kenji and his illustrators helen kilpatrick examines re visionings of the literature of one of japan s most celebrated authors miyazawa kenji

1896 1933 the deeply buddhist kenji s imaginative dōwa children s tales are among the most frequently illustrated in japan today numerous internationally renowned artists such as munakata shikō kim tschang yeul and lee ufan have represented his stories in an array of intriguing visual styles reinvigorating them as picture books for modern audiences focusing on some of kenji s most famous narratives the author analyses the ways artists respond to the stories metaphysical philosophies exploring the interaction of literature art and culture miyazawa kenji and his illustrators is richly depicted with full colour images of the representations of kenji s work making the book a valuable resource on how illustrations shape story and how these picture books continue to convey the texts witty and ironic messages more deeply than the written word alone dickens and his illustrators by frederic george kitton that dickens s association with his illustrators was something more than mere coadjutorship is evidenced both in forster s life and in the published letters from these sources we derive much information tending to prove the existence of a warm friendship subsisting between author and artists indeed the latter with two or three exceptions were privileged to enjoy the close personal intimacy of dickens and his family circle recalling the fact that the novelist not unfrequently availed himself of the traits and idiosyncrasies of his familiars it seems somewhat strange that in the whole range of his creations we fail to discover a single attempt at the portraiture of an artist for those dilettanti wielders of the brush miss la creevy and henry gowan can scarcely be included under that denomination during the earlier part of this century the illustrators of books seldom if ever resorted to the use of the living model such experts as cruikshank seymour phiz maclise doyle and leech were no exceptions to this rule but at the beginning of the sixties there arose a new school of designers and draughtsmen prominent among them being leighton millais walker and sandys those popular royal academicians mr marcus stone and mr luke fildes the illustrators respectively of our mutual friend and edwin drood are almost the only surviving members of that confraternity they however speedily relinquished black and white art in order to devote their attention to the more fascinating pursuit of painting while admitting the technical superiority of many of the illustrations in the later editions of dickens s works such as those by frederick barnard and charles green the collector and bibliophile claim for the designs in the original issue an interest which is lacking in subsequent editions that is to say they possess the charm of association a charm that far outweighs possible artistic defects and conventions for be it remembered these designs were produced under the direct influence and authorisation of dickens and by artists who worked hand in hand with the great romancer himself
