this book embraces the idea that in today's complex world multiple emerging perspectives are critical to the design fields the environment and society it also brings authors into conversation to focus on the built environment from the perspective of critical practice the authors take as a starting point jane rendell's ground breaking work which defines critical spatial practice as self reflective modes of thought that seek to change the world in opposition to conventional conceptions of architectural education and work this book reflects how socially engaged architects landscape architects designers urbanists and artists take up critical spatial practice bridging ideas from multiple countries and approaches to design scholarship each chapter seeks to find places of convergence for the multiple strands that form around themes of practice equality methods theory ethics pedagogy and representation rendell's foreword and postscript provide context for these themes and suggest a way forward in today's challenging changing times this inspiring and thought provoking book explores how recent innovations in landscape architecture have uniquely positioned the practice to address complex issues and technologies that affect our built environment the changing and expanding nature of landscape make it more important than ever for landscape architects to seek innovation as a critical component in the forward development of a contemporary profession that merges expansive ideas and applications the editors bring together leading contributors who are experts in new and pioneering approaches and technologies within the fields of academic and professional landscape architecture the chapters explore digital technology design processes and theoretical queries that shape the contemporary practice of landscape architecture topics covered include digital design fabrication and prototyping emerging technology visualization of data system theory concluding the book are case studies looking at the work of two landscape firms peg and mykd and two academic departments illinois institute of technology and the rhode island school of design which together show the novel and exciting directions that landscape is already going in modernity was critically important to the formation and evolution of landscape architecture yet its histories in the discipline are still being written this book looks closely at the work and influences of some of the least studied figures of the era established and less well known female landscape architects who pursued modernist ideals in their designs the women discussed in this volume belong to the pioneering first two generations of professional landscape architects and were outstanding in the field they not only developed notable practices but some also became leaders in landscape architectural education as the first professors in the discipline or prolific lecturers and authors as early professionals who navigated the world of a male dominated intellectual and menial work force they were exponents of modernity in addition many personalities discussed in this volume were either figures of transition between tradition and modernism like silvia crowe maria teresa parpagliolo or they fully embraced and furthered the modernist agenda like rosa kliass cornelia oberlander the chapters offer new perspectives and contribute to the development of a more balanced and integrated landscape architectural historiography of the twentieth century contributions come from practitioners and academics who discuss women based in usa canada brazil new zealand south africa the former ussr sweden britain germany austria france and italy ideal reading for those studying landscape history women's studies and cultural geography landscape is a vital synergistic concept which opens up ways of thinking about many of the problems which beset our contemporary world such as climate change social alienation environmental degradation loss of biodiversity and destruction of heritage as a concept landscape does not respect disciplinary boundaries indeed many academic disciplines have found the concept so important it has been used as a qualifier that delineates whole sub disciplines landscape ecology landscape planning landscape archaeology and so forth in other cases landscape studies progress under a broader banner such as heritage studies or cultural geography yet it does not always mean the same thing in all of these contexts the routledge companion to landscape studies offers the first comprehensive attempt to explore research directions into the many uses and meanings of landscape the companion contains thirty nine original contributions from leading scholars within the field which have been divided into four parts experiencing landscape landscape culture and heritage landscape society and justice and design and planning for landscape topics covered range from phenomenological approaches to landscape to the consideration of landscape as a repository of human culture from ideas of identity and belonging to issues of power and hegemony and from discussions of participatory planning and design to the call for new imaginaries in a time of global and environmental crisis each contribution explores the future development of different conceptual and theoretical approaches as well as recent empirical contributions to knowledge and understanding collectively they encourage dialogue across disciplinary barriers and reflection upon the implications of research findings for local national and international policy in relation to landscape this companion provides up to date critical reviews of state of the art perspectives across this multifaceted field embracing disciplines such as anthropology archaeology cultural studies geography landscape planning landscape architecture countryside management forestry heritage studies ecology and fine art it serves as an invaluable point of reference for scholars researchers and graduate students alike engaging in the field of landscape studies twenty two essays that provide a forum for assessing the tenets accomplishments and limits of modernism in landscape architecture and for formulating ideas about possible directions for the future of the discipline these twenty two essays provide a rich forum for assessing the tenets accomplishments and limits of modernism in landscape architecture and for formulating ideas about possible directions for the future of the discipline during the 1930s garrett eckbo dan kiley and james rose began to integrate modernist architectural ideas into their work and to design a landscape more in accord with the life and sensibilities of their time together with thomas church whose gardens provided the setting for california living they laid the foundations for a modern american landscape design this first critical assessment of modern landscape architecture brings together seminal articles from the 1930s and 1940s by eckbo kiley rose fletcher steele and christopher tunnard and includes contributions by contemporary writers and designers such as peirce lewis catherine howett john dixon hunt peter walker and martha schwartz who examine the historical and cultural framework within which modern landscape designers have worked there are also essays by lance neckar reuben rainey gregg bleam michael laurie and marc treib that discuss the designs and legacy of the americans tunnard eckbo church kiley and robert irwin dorothée imbert takes up pierre emile legrain and french modernist gardens of the 1920s and thorbjörn andersson reviews experiments with stylized naturalism developed by erik glemme and others in the stockholm park system landscape architecture and digital technologies explores how digital technologies are reshaping design and making in landscape architecture while the potentials of digital technologies are well documented within landscape planning and visualisation their application within design practice is far less understood this book highlights the role of the digital model in encouraging a new design logic that moves from the privileging of the visual to a focus on processes of formation bridging the interface of the conceptual and material the virtual and the physical drawing on interviews and projects from a range of international designers including snøhetta arup gustafson porter aspect studios grant associates catherine mosbach philippe rahm parkkim laac and peg office of landscape architecture among others the authors explore the influence of parametric modelling scripting real time data simulation prototyping fabrication and building information modelling on the design and construction of contemporary landscapes this engagement with practice is expanded through critical reflection from academics involved in landscape architecture programs around the world that are reshaping their research and pedagogy to reflect an expanded digital realm crossing critical theory technology and contemporary design the book constructs a picture of an emerging twenty first century practice of landscape architecture practice premised on complexity and performance it also highlights the disciplinary demands and challenges in engaging with a rapidly evolving digital context within practice and education the book is of immense value to professionals and researchers and is a key publication for digital landscape courses at all levels the theme is related to large parks on post industrial sites in contemporary urban landscape conceptions which is expounded in the fields of landscape architecture landscape ecology and urban planning a worldwide perspective is created so as to conduct cross cultural research on the theories and practices of large scale urban parks in north america germany and china through the scientific approach of critical rationalism three design paradigms of large parks in different conceptions of contemporary urban landscapes are formulated based on quantitative and qualitative analysis which are classified as the organic parks of north american landscape urbanism the structural parks of german landscape structuralism and the large parks of chinese urban inventory renewal by means of critical thinking in diverse cultural interpretations the research aims to reveal remarkable similarities and differences between the cultures in the western world according to their understanding of landscapes coherent vs creative landscape and ecology representation vs metaphor and landscape and life diversity
