creator of the gofast model author greg takoudes introduces a comprehensive study of the structural models of screenwriting and provides readers with an adaptive framework for writing successful scripts with a new approach which reframes discussions and offers alternatives to students and writers who find conventional models creatively constricting takoudes draws from both teaching and professional experience to provide a new model of screenwriting that is designed to be adaptive to various types of scripts the book is structured in three parts first it introduces the gofast model allowing for less orthodox writers to keep their unique voices by breaking scripts down into smaller parts and encouraging more flexibility to write in an organized way without feeling stifled second the book explores several writing scenarios featuring the practical uses of the model and a step by step script structure spanning chapters on a horror superhero and heist movie third it concludes with detailed case studies exploring how the gofast model can be applied to break down scripts including get out the marvelous mrs maisel and portrait of a lady on fire it is an ideal text for screenwriting students and aspiring screenwriters interested in learning how working writers put structural models into practice as well professional screenwriters producers and development executives looking for new ways to think about writing feedback and development the volume examines several screen adaptations of works written by mid and late nineteenth century authors who constitute the hallmark of the russian cultural brand finding favour with audiences in russia and in the west it considers reimagining of goncharov turgenyev dostoevsky chekhov and tolstoy in different contexts the book examines various types of adaptation including transposition commentary and analogy it focuses on established russian and western filmmakers dialogue with the classics taking place in the last 60 years the book shows how the ideological and or philosophical concerns of the day serve as a lens for a specific reading of the novel the story or the play by foregrounding a synergetic literary cinematic space the book demonstrates how the director becomes a creative mediator between his audiences and the author taking account of contemporary epistemological imperatives and the particularities of the reception by viewers this is a critical study of malle's life's work it is approached non theoretically on a film by film basis each is examined as an individualistic and self reverential exploration of its own subjects and themes rosemarie tichler and barry jay kaplan take us behind the scenes in conversations with thirteen of today's most distinguished playwrights including tony kushner john guare wallace shawn suzan lori parks david henry hwang and sarah ruhl to familiarize the reader with the world of each playwright tichler and kaplan introduce us to the environments in which the work happens conducting their interviews in the playwright's home a dark theater or a coffee shop topics of conversation range from the playwrights earliest memories of the theater to finding their unique voices and from their working relationships with directors actors and designers to their involvement in the purely commercial aspects of their profession taken together these conversations constitute a collectively taught master class in the art and craft of writing for the stage working in a variety of genres from westerns and spy films to swashbucklers and melodramas jacques tourneur imposed a personal cinematic vision this in depth exploration of tourneur's entire career offers a detailed film by film analysis of this influential director's work how long have psychotherapists been depicted in films nearly as long as there have been films or psychotherapists for that matter this isn't surprising if one considers that the freudian revolution in psychology and the invention of motion pictures occurred at about the same time what may be surprising is the sheer number of times that psychotherapists in their many guises have shown up in the movies and how their depiction has reflected changing social attitudes about psychotherapy over the last century this comprehensive worldwide filmography examines over 5000 movies films in which mental health professionals appear or in which others act in that capacity are listed alphabetically a preface explains the criteria for a film s inclusion and a lengthy introduction and guide to the filmography explores the changing social attitudes mirrored by the movies appendices list the titles by decade alternate titles for many films recent releases and qualifying adult films
