master s thesis from the year 2011 in the subject economics finance grade 8 0 maastricht university school of business and economics language english abstract this study finds that while a large part of the variation in crude oil futures prices is driven by fundamental factors financial investment and speculation has the potential to aggravate reactions to changing fundamental variables and furthermore move prices on its own the evidence is gathered by performing linear regressions and granger causality tests on futures returns position data of different categories of futures traders on the new york mercantile exchange and proxies for relevant fundamental factors such as equity and exchange rate returns gathered from august 2006 to december 2010 while higher prices for crude oil naturally come along with increasing physical demand and finite world supply future regulation might temper market volatility and guarantee that prices reflect a sustainable physical market equilibrium the study also gives an overview of commodity market regulation and position limits on futures markets this book is an inquiry into the role of law in the contemporary political economy of hunger in the work of many international institutions governments and ngos law is represented as a solution to the persistence of hunger this presentation is evident in the efforts to realize a human right to adequate food as well as in the positioning of law in the form of regulation as a tool to protect society from unruly markets in this monograph anna chadwick draws on theoretical work from a range of disciplines to challenge accounts that portray law's role in the context of hunger as exclusively remedial the book takes as its starting point claims that financial traders caused the 2007-8 global food crisis by speculating in financial instruments linked to the prices of staple grains the introduction of new regulations to curb the excesses of the financial sector in order to protect the food insecure reinforces the dominant perception that law can solve the problem chadwick investigates a number of different legal regimes spanning public international law international economic law transnational governance private law and human rights law to gather evidence for a counterclaim law is part of the problem the character of the contemporary global food system a food system that is being progressively financialized owes everything to law if world hunger is to be eradicated chadwick argues then greater attention needs to be paid to how different legal regimes operate to consistently privilege the interests of the wealthy few over the needs of poor and the hungry
