the international guide to student achievement brings together and critically examines the major influences shaping student achievement today there are many often competing claims about how to enhance student achievement raising the questions of what works and what works best world renowned bestselling authors john hattie and eric m anderman have invited an international group of scholars to write brief empirically supported articles that examine predictors of academic achievement across a variety of topics and domains rather than telling people what to do in their schools and classrooms this guide simply provides the first ever compendium of research that summarizes what is known about the major influences shaping students academic achievement around the world readers can apply this knowledge base to their own school and classroom settings the 150 entries serve as intellectual building blocks to creatively mix into new or existing educational arrangements and aim for quick easy reference chapter authors follow a common format that allows readers to more seamlessly compare and contrast information across entries guiding readers to apply this knowledge to their own classrooms their curriculums and teaching strategies and their teacher training programs george j sefa dei brings his extensive research experience in the euro american school system to this book in which the reader is invited share in the dialogue about the links between the accounts of high academic achieving students and their successes stories are presented about their world views and their everyday experiences of what it means to be a student to be engaged and to succeed in school through these discussions the book shows how the different accounts of students reflect their everyday identities and social realities the reality of learners is reflected in how they make sense of the world including through interactions with peers educators and others they encounter in their educational journey while research interviews show that some students uncritically embrace dominant notions of success a number of those marginalized by the school system and society at large understand the subtext of their world which creates a position of power and allows the subaltern voice of difference to fuel educational change this book argues that a critical analysis and understanding of academic achievement must be contextual and be able to point to the uniqueness and connectedness of students experiences our discursive analysis can never lose sight of race and social difference as powerful explanatory variables in understanding the educational experiences of diverse youth in the euro american schooling system this book goes beyond the symphony of race and power to examine the intersections of social difference social class gender sexuality ability language religion and so forth in coming to know about students excellence and failures it appears that even the much touted successful students who excel can be disengaged and there are significant race class gender and class disparities in such successes as well this book brings to the forefront the need to bring a complex reading to our understandings of student success across lines of difference and as well over time in order to understand the processes of student disengagement further this study argues that we must conceive of dis engagement as a dialogical process wrapped up in the relationship between agency and structure this implies that a student cannot disengage alone the agentive capacity to do so cannot be divorced from the sometimes clandestine structural imperatives to reject formal education
