based on long term medical anthropological research in northern ghana the author analyses issues of health and healing of gender and of the control and use of money in a changing rural african setting he describes the culture of medical pluralism so typical for neo colonial states and people s choices of traditional local medicine plants and sacrifices islamic medicine charms and various written solutions and modern therapy biomedicine in particular western pharmaceuticals he concludes that the rural urban divide is a fiction that demarcations between these areas are frequently blurred linked by a postcolonial capitalist discourse of local markets regional economies and national structures which frequently emerge in local african settings but often originate in global and multinational markets this volume explores agricultural commercialization from a gender equality and right to food perspective agricultural commercialization involving not only the shift to selling crops and buying inputs but also the commodification of land and labour has always been controversial strategies for commercialization have often reinforced and exacerbated inequalities been blind to gender differences and given rise to violations of the human rights to food land work and social security while there is a body of evidence to trace these developments globally impacts vary considerably in local contexts this book systematically considers these dynamics in two countries cambodia and ghana profoundly different in terms of their history and location they provide the basis for fruitful comparisons because they both transitioned to democracy in the early 1990s made agricultural development a priority and adopted orthodox policies of commercialization to develop the sector chapters illustrate how commercialization processes are gendered highlighting distinctive gender ethnic and class dynamics in rural ghana and cambodia and the different outcomes these generate they also show the ways in which food cultures are changing and the often problematic impact of these changes on the safety and quality of food specific policies and legal norms are examined with chapters addressing the development and implementation of frameworks on the right to food and land administration overall the volume brings into relief multiple dimensions shaping the outcomes of processes of commercialization including gender orders food cultures policy translation national and sub national policies corporate investments and programmes and formal and informal legal norms in doing so it offers insight not only on our case countries but also provides proposals to advance rights based research on food security this book will be of great interest to students and scholars of food security agricultural development and economics gender human rights and sustainable development this insightful handbook argues that constitutional interpretation has two core elements constitutional text and constitutional context through a combination of thematic chapters and country specific case studies the handbook analyses commitments found in preambles epilogues and other constitutional elements as well as the overall constitutional structure since the 1990 wave of constitutional reforms in africa the role of constitutional courts or courts exercising the power to interpret and apply constitutions have become a critical aspect to the on going process of constitutional construction reconstruction and maintenance these developments appear at least from the texts of the revised or new constitutions to have resulted in fundamental changes in the nature and role of courts exercising jurisdiction in constitutional matters the chapters in this second volume of the stellenbosch handbooks in african constitutional law series are the first to undertake a critical and comparative examination of the interplay of the diverse forms of constitutional review models on the continent comparative analysis is particularly important given the fact that over the last two decades constitutional courts in africa have been asked to decide a litany of hotly contested and often sensitive disputes of a social political and economic nature as the list of areas in which these courts have intervened has grown so too have their powers actual or potential by identifying and examining the different models of constitutional review adopted these chapters consider the extent to which these courts are contributing to enhancing constitutionalism and respect for the rule of law on the continent the chapters show how the long standing negative image of african courts is slowly changing the courts have in responded in different ways to the variety of constraints incentives and opportunities that have been provided by the constitutional reforms of the last two decades to act as the bulwark against authoritarianism and this provides a rich field for analysis filling an important gap in the literature of contemporary comparative constitutional adjudication this is an open access title available under the terms of a cc by nc nd 4 0 international licence it is free to read on the oxford academic platform and offered as a free pdf download from oup and selected open access locations
