the striking parallels between derrida s deconstruction and certain strategies eschewing oppositional hierarchies in asian thought especially in buddhism and daoism have attracted much attention from scholars of both western and asian philosophy this book contributes to this discussion by focusing on the ethical dimension and function of deconstruction in asian thought examining different traditions and schools of asian thought including indian buddhism zen other schools of east asian buddhism the kyoto school and daoism the contributors explore the central theme from different contexts and different angles insights and notions from the contemporary discussion of derridean deconstruction and its ethic or derridean levinasian ethic as a paradigm for comparison or interpretation are used as a framework furthering our understanding of the relationship between deconstruction and the ethical in asian traditions this book also enriches the contemporary ethical discourse from a global perspective by bridging asia and the west this multi authored monograph argues that the use of paradox and contradictions in contrast to in typical western thought can deepen rather than disprove philosophical thought and discussion here the authors apply this view to east asian philosophy examining two classical daoist texts the daodejing and the zhuangzi and the trajectory of buddhism in east asia including the san lun tiantai chan and zen traditions culminating with the kyoto school of philosophy in the twentieth century the work ultimately concludes that contradictory

in an attempt to bridge the vast divide between classical asian thought and contemporary western philosophy joel j kupferman finds that the two traditions do not by and large supply different answers to the same questions rather each tradition is searching for answers to their own set of questions mapping out distinct philosophical investigations in this groundbreaking book kupferman argues that the foundational indian and chinese texts include lines of thought that can enrich current philosophical practice and in some cases provide uniquely sophisticated insights special attention is given to the ethical issues of formation and fluidity of self the nature and possibilities of choice the compartmentalization of life implicit in some ethical systems the variations of ethical demands from person to person and the nature of philosophy itself as a communicative activity this study will provide a wealth of information for philosophers seeking a closer knowledge of asian philosophy and general readers with an interest in eastern thought this book guides readers through ten classic works of asian philosophy several major schools of eastern thought are discussed including hinduism buddhism confucianism daoism taoism and chan zen the author connects the ideas of these schools to those of western philosophy thereby making the material accessible to people who are unfamiliar with the cultures and intellectual traditions of asia a wide range of important topics are addressed reality time self knowledge ethics human nature enlightenment and death
