teaching the next generation of teachers looks to serve the many teachers who teach or sponsor classes, clubs or conferences for secondary school students who aspire to become teachers. Based on the author's research with students in the Tomorrow's Teachers program, the book's development is rich with the voices of students and their reflections on how teachers sometimes inspired them to teach and sometimes impelled them to think of new ways to teach their personal stories. As learners will validate all students' experiences, as it both invites and inspires aspiring teachers in secondary schools to fulfill their dreams by becoming teachers guided by the learning community concept, it presents research and practical activities that will assist teachers and their students in reimagining and reinventing what teachers and schools do. It does this as it presents important research on how professional learning communities have the most positive effects on student learning while also empowering teachers to greater job satisfaction. Most importantly, this book will serve as a practical how-to guide so secondary school students can begin to experience working in a professional learning community as they strive to improve the schools they are in right now. In doing this, the book adheres to the idea that student leadership now is the best preparation for teacher leadership later. It will help aspiring teachers move away from the many stale traditions in schooling as they reconceive of the profession in ways that will make it more personally satisfying while acknowledging that the work of teachers in the 21st century must necessarily be different from what we have now: legacy practices of standardization left over from the industrial age.

Professional wisdom has suggested that coaching presence is purely about the coach: how they show up in the room and what they say and do to support clients to reach their goals. But what if it was about the relational dynamics between the coach and client at an unspoken level? In this book, Tünde Erdős demystifies the power of the nonverbal coaching relationship. Put simply, the body does not lie. Using research from 184 videoed coach-client pairs and exploring their spontaneous interactions at a nonverbal level, we deepen our understanding of how clients navigate uncertainties including in the coaching room and how coaches can truly partner with clients to facilitate their goal attainment beyond traditional coaching. This book also reveals that a coach's full-body presence can sometimes hinder learning and prevent progress towards a goal. Tünde Erdős guides the reader through integrative presence where you will learn how to build
