the present book for the first time links the thoughts of modern western sociologists of literature with an overall description of the literary activities attitudes and views in late eighteenth century poland inspired by the studies of Bourdieu on literary fields and more particular S. J. Schmidt's study of the history of the rise and development of the social system literature in Germany in the eighteenth century Cf. Schmidt 1989 The author tries to establish whether Poland witnessed the rise of a more complex and relatively autonomous literary field or as Schmidt calls it a functionally differentiated literary system in the age of the reign of King Stanisław August Poniatowski 1764-1795 functionally differentiated literary systems systems in which an increased number of literary agents and institutions produce, sell, buy, and criticize literary works according to capitalist principles are the literary systems of today as most scholars believe their origins are to be found in most European nations in the late seventeenth and eighteenth centuries did such a modern literary system, albeit with certain limitations, rise in Poland in the years of the rule of Stanisław A. Poniatowski This is the question the author of the present volume will attempt to answer This volume is of interest to theoreticians and empirical researchers approaching literature from a sociological point of view historians and of course Slavists interested in eighteenth century literary developments in Poland
