secession is a live issue in today s western europe in the last decade we have witnessed the consolidation of pro independence movements in scotland and catalonia and in the near future we might see their re emergence or the rise of other pro secession movements in other european regions the response of the eu institutions to secession within eu member states may well be based mainly on political considerations however since the eu is a community based on the rule of law it has also to justify its position with normative arguments of principle secession and european union law provides such normative support drawing on a pluralist reading of the relation between eu law and national law to support the conclusion that eu law should respect domestic constitutional orders this book studies secession within eu member states through legal methodology the theoretical doctrinal analysis of concepts and institutions considering the evolving reality and case law the legal approach has three dimensions given the three different legal orders that interact at the eu level international law eu law and national constitutional law based on article 4 2 teu the central claim of this book is that the eu duty to respect national identity and fundamental constitutional structures generate obligations to respect member states constitutional orders provided that the values enshrined in the article are not violated by the member state affected topical and original secession and european union law reviews and rethinks key features of the eu and the eu legal order in times of increasing challenges to the western idea this book illuminates how russian and eu foreign policy discourses interact while official russian and eu articulations on issues of sovereignty human rights and the shared neighbourhood diverge greatly they are not articulated in isolation but are entangled and condition each other to understand this entanglement this book approaches the relationship between russia and the eu as an intersubjective one a social context where diverging interpretations of the world struggle for hegemony its theoretical framework marries poststructuralist thought with insights from critical approaches to hegelian recognition dialectics based on an extensive and systematic empirical discourse analysis of russian and eu foreign policy texts this study draws a detailed picture of the intensifying discursive dynamics accompanying the deteriorating relationship between brussels and moscow it shows how neither the eu s nor russia s foreign policy articulation has changed substantially the interaction pattern continues to be an asymmetrical one with russia s articulations much more conditioned by the eu s discourse than vice versa the book thus argues that the eu is more independent in sovereignly articulating an interpretation of the world whereas russia continues to face constraints in the formulation of an autonomous political project with its novel and innovative conceptual framework this book furthers the theoretical scholarship on poststructuralism in international relations it addresses all scholars interested in poststructuralist enquiries and will be of great value to students and scholars of russian foreign policy and the eu master s thesis from the year 2015 in the subject politics topic international organisations grade no grade yet university of aarhus course international studies language english abstract the unprecedented scope and implications of the 2014 ebola outbreak in west africa has confronted the international community with challenges in responding to the crisis on 19 september 2014 the first ever un emergency health mission united nations mission for ebola emergency response unmeer was established unmeer was set up as a temporary mission to bring together un agencies and capabilities in the response and closely collaborate with governments ngos member states and other relevant actors with the main strategic objective to stop the ebola outbreak this thesis investigates the effects of unmeer on the global ebola response as a whole and assesses whether the establishment of the mission was the right decision to make from the un side in response to the outbreak in this regard the context in which unmeer was established is scrutinized by examining the challenges faced in the outbreak and how these were approached by the international community the analysis is predominantly based on qualitative primary data collected through individual semi structured interviews with respondents who are or have been directly involved in the ebola response as well as on secondary data findings show that unmeer had a positive impact on the response in various respects the exceptional decision from the un side to establish the first ever emergency health mission increased worldwide awareness of the outbreak and catalysed a high level political and financial international engagement in the response furthermore there seems to be a positive attitude towards unmeer s role in bringing together un agencies under a single structure in the response as well as the logistics support provided by unmeer to un agencies and other partners working in the response however due to a lack of presence and a limited number of staff in the affected countries effective collaboration with organizations involved on the ground did not sufficiently materialize findings indicate that overall responders were not satisfied with unmeer s impact on the ground this seems to be rooted in i a a significant gap between responders expectations and perceptions of unmeer due to lack of clear information from unmeer s side on what exactly could be expected of the mission drawing on research findings and lessons learned from the outbreak instead existing resources and systems under the un office for the coordination of of humanitarian affairs ocha should have been reinforced
