why do you believe the things you believe do you remember events differently from how they really happened where do your superstitions come from how do morals evolve why are some people religious and others nonreligious everyone has thoughts and questions like these and now andrew newberg and mark waldman expose for the first time how our complex views emerge from the neural activities of the brain bridging science psychology and religion they demonstrate in simple terminology how the brain perceives reality and transforms it into an extraordinary range of personal ethical and creative premises that we use to build meaning value spirituality and truth into our lives when you come to understand this remarkable process it will change forever the way you look at the world and yourself supported by groundbreaking research including brain scans of people as they pray meditate and even speak in tongues newberg and waldman propose a new model for how deep convictions emerge and influence our lives you will even glimpse how the mind of an atheist works when contemplating god using personal stories moral paradoxes and optical illusions the authors demonstrate how our brains construct our fondest assumptions about reality offering recommendations for exercising your most important muscle in order to develop a more life affirming flexible range of attitudes you'll discover how to recognize when your beliefs are altered by others guard against mental traps and prejudicial thinking distinguish between destructive and constructive beliefs cultivate spiritual and ethical ideals ultimately we must always return to our beliefs from the ordinary to the extraordinary they give meaning to the mysteries of life providing us with our individual uniqueness and the ability to fill our lives with joy most important though they give us inspiration and hope beacons to guide us through the light and dark corners of the soul a wide ranging argument by a renowned anthropologist that the capacity to believe is what makes us human why are so many humans religious why do we daydream imagine and hope philosophers theologians social scientists and historians have offered explanations for centuries but their accounts often ignore or even avoid human evolution evolutionary scientists answer with proposals for why ritual religion and faith make sense as adaptations to past challenges or as by products of our hyper complex cognitive capacities but what if the focus on religion is too narrow renowned anthropologist agustín fuentes argues that the capacity to be religious is actually a small part of a larger and deeper human capacity to believe why believe in religion economies love a fascinating intervention into some of the most common misconceptions about human nature this book employs evolutionary neurobiological and anthropological evidence to argue that belief the ability to commit passionately and wholeheartedly to an idea is central to the human way of being in the world please note this is a companion version not the original book sample book insights 1 dna is the secret of who we are and it is deeply embedded in all living things it is a record of the histories of fusions and fissions that have characterized life from its first humble appearances four billion years ago 2 the first part of the answer to who we are is that we are squarely in the midst of the order of mammals known as primates we share a lot of dna with other primates and this has led many to believe that humans are just another species of primate 3 primate sociality is particularly complex and different from other forms of gregariousness the human capacity to believe is rooted in the deep roots of primate sociality 4 the human capacity for cooperation collaboration and deep social reliance on and commitment to others is rooted in our histories as primates we have a capacity for complex social lives heightened social cognition and behavioral flexibility with the deluge of communication around us books newspapers blogs journals and magazines all insisting that their view of the world is most compelling which should we trust this is no small question in fact our answer has eternal implications the twelve session why we believe the bible study guide and dvd are designed to help study groups and classes explore the claim that the bible stands above all others as the book of books pointing infallibly to the king of kings through the dvd teaching of pastor john piper and the five guided assignments per week participants will study biblical texts and discuss probing questions to help them see why the bible alone is worthy of our confidence the classic work on christian evidences how do we know there is a god how do we know the bible is his word what about other great religions and great books what about science and the bible in thirteen carefully written chapters the author shows with conciseness and clarity how thoroughly reasonable is the accuracy of the scriptures as the divinely inspired word of god it will strengthen your faith and arm you to meet skeptics with reliance on outside sources the work provides a solid foundation for discussions of the authenticity accuracy and integrity of the bible one of the classic works in christian apologetics of all time 119 pages 9th edition available in hardcover and paperback
