through an engagement with the philosophies of proust s contemporaries alexis ravaissou henri bergson and georg simmel suzanne guerlac presents an original reading of remembrance of things past a la recherche du temps perdu challenging traditional interpretations she argues that proust s magnum opus is not a melancholic text but one that records the dynamic time of change and the complex vitality of the real situating proust s novel within a modernism of money and broadening the exploration through references to cultural events and visual technologies commercial photography photojournalism pornography the regulation of prostitution the panama scandal and the dreyfus affair this study reveals that proust s subject is not the esthetic recuperation of loss but rather the adventure of living in time on both the individual and the social level at a concrete historical moment each of us has exactly twenty four hours a day even the greatest people in history have not had more time than you john rockefeller and steve jobs had exactly the same amount of time per day as you the only thing that sets them apart is how they spent their time from this book you will learn about the price of time calculate the cost of an hour of your time learn how to properly plan and invest your time turning it into money this book brings together in a novel way an account of the structure of time with an account of our language and thought about time joshua mozersky argues that it is possible to reconcile the human experience of time which is centred on the present with the objective conception of time according to which all moments are intrinsically alike he defends a temporally centreless ontology along with a tenseless semantics that is compatible with and indeed helps to explain the need for tensed language and thought this theory of time also it is argued helps to elucidate the nature of change and temporal passage neither of which need be denied nor relegated to the realm of subjective experience only the book addresses a variety of topics including whether the past and future are real whether temporal passage is a genuine phenomenon or merely a subjective illusion how the asymmetry of time is to be understood the nature of representation how something can change its properties yet retain its identity and whether objects are three dimensional or four dimensional it is a wide ranging examination of recent issues in metaphysics philosophy of language and the philosophy of science and presents a compelling picture of the
