e un giovane non troppo ambizioso che vive alla giornata e forse per questo riesce a cogliere il bello di questa sua semplice esistenza il libro descrive l'instabilità e la deriva degli affetti familiari in una realtà piccola e provinciale per la scoperta di una inclinazione diversa dal gruppo delle amiche così come si definiscono i personaggi del racconto spicca la personalità di Matteo principale compagno d'avventure di Francesco tra i due un rapporto simbiotico che alimenta la loro pazzia e voglia di divertirsi le esperienze maturate dal protagonista definiscono una visione disincantata e rassegnata del mondo omosessuale troppo legato alla carnalità dei rapporti e sempre più distaccato dalla romantica idea che vuole tutte le coppie etero e gay sullo stesso livello when and how do great and middle powers moderately challenge the status quo these compelling questions have largely been overlooked in international relations literature which typically views the cyclical rise of revolutionary revisionist great powers as an unchanging aspect of international politics conventional thinking suggests that after peace or major agreements are established a new international status quo emerges provoking major dissatisfied states to challenge it sometimes these challenges escalate to full scale wars or intense competitions with the status quo powers those committed to defending and maintaining current conditions yet revisionism does not always manifest as great power war or outright competition it can take more moderate forms this book addresses this neglected puzzle with two key aims the first is explicative seeking to provide a solid and novel causal explanation of this recurring phenomenon in international politics the second aim is typological to construct a more nuanced and precise typology of revisionism that focuses on foreign policy means to validate its new theoretical framework the book examines three case studies the united states italy and china spanning three distinct regions and historical contexts and featuring diverse political regimes the late 19th century the interwar period and the cold war this book offers a systematic account of communication on food aimed at children investigating verbal and visual strategies used in food media in english from synchronic and diachronic perspectives while there is a wide body of research on food discourse there has been little to date on children as a particular category of actors within food related communication cesiri integrates work from corpus linguistics genre analysis and multimodality to analyze verbal and visual components in media that transmit specialist knowledge and familiarize children with foundational food concepts the extra linguistic factors that shape food related communication and the ways in which different genres represent culinary traditions to children the volume features an extensive corpus of technical products such as cookbooks commercial products such as advertisements and institutional products such as leaflets from international institutions in applying a multi layered perspective to a diverse range of food related communication materials cesiri seeks to unpack whether potential differences in communicative strategies can be attributed to the source culture of interactants or those shared by a specific community of actors and in turn further insights into the nature of domain specific discourse this volume will appeal to scholars in discourse analysis multimodality corpus linguistics and childhood studies the fall of communist regimes and the end of the cold war marked the start of a new regressive phase of the modernization process this book explains the genesis and the spread of this veritable new form of government termed oikocracy it is characterised by transnational clan networks being the dominant social structures and the primacy of private economic interests over public political interests as such it supersedes traditional forms of government having originated in the most highly industrialised countries this neoliberal absolutism no longer requires sophisticated ideologies or institutional propaganda rather relying on the dynamics of a globalised world that facilitate an easy mobilization of the masses and thereby expanding to the rest of the world this book suggests that in response we have to develop new principles of government antagonistic to the existing ones and avoid solutions proposed by an increasing number of western leaders
