the routledge handbook of argumentation theory offers 43 chapters written specifically for this volume by a team of leading international scholars that survey a wide spectrum of research on the nature purpose and promise of argument and the associated practice of argumentation each chapter provides a state of the art survey to help readers understand and engage with the field's main ideas and problems the book is split into two parts part i covers orienting approaches in argumentation studies part ii focuses on the main debates in argumentation theory the handbook illustrates how different disciplines contribute to argumentation theory integrating contributions from logic epistemology social psychology political science communication rhetoric and other fields this volume thus provides researchers and students with a picture of the diversity and depth to the work in argumentation theory today throughout it clarifies complex questions and methods in this evolving field of study and references at the end of chapters and a comprehensive index at the back of the book provide readers with central resources for further work in this important area of research the latest edition of arguments and arguing contains the same balance of theory and practice breadth of coverage current and relevant examples and accessible writing style that made previous editions so popular in hundreds of classrooms the authors draw from classic and recent argumentation theory and research contextualized with well chosen examples to showcase a narrative style of argumentation and the values and attitudes of audiences readers learn how to employ both formal and informal argumentative strategies in an array of communication forums from interpersonal interactions to academic debate to politics to business a newly added chapter on visual argumentation and a striking color photo insert demonstrate the value and power of visual elements in the construction of arguments the ability to argue is necessary if people are to solve problems resolve conflicts and evaluate alternative courses of action while many are taught that arguing is counterproductive and arguments should be avoided hollihan and baaske illustrate that arguing is an essential and fundamental human activity learning the art of effective argumentation entails a grasp of not only the strategies and principles of analysis and logical reasoning but also the importance of arguing in a positive and socially constructive fashion the present volume assembles a relevant set of studies of argument by analogy which address this topic in a systematic fashion either from an essentially theoretical perspective or from the perspective of it being applied to different fields like politics linguistics literature law medicine science in general and philosophy all result from original research conducted by their authors for this publication thus broadly speaking this is an exception which we find worthy of occupying a special place in the sphere of the bibliography on the argument by analogy in effect most of the contexts of the publications on this topic focus on specific areas for example everyday discourse science or law theory while underestimating or sometimes even ignoring other interdisciplinary scopes as is the case of literature medicine or philosophy the idiosyncrasy of this volume is that the reader and the researcher may follow the development of different theoretical outlooks on argument by analogy while measuring the scope of its greater or lesser application to the aforementioned areas as a whole this book is concerned with the evaluation of natural argumentative discourse and in particular with the language in which arguments are expressed it introduces a systematic procedure for the analysis and assessment of arguments which is designed to be a practical tool and may be considered a pseudo algorithm for argument evaluation the first half of the book lays the theoretical groundwork with a thorough examination of both the nature of language and the nature of argument this leads to a definition of argumentation as reasoning expressed within a procedure which itself yields the three frames of analysis used in the evaluation procedure process reasoning and expression the second half begins with a detailed discussion of the concept of fallacy with particular attention on fallacies of language their origin and their effects a new way of looking at fallacies emerges from these chapters and it is that conception together with the understanding of the nature of argumentation described in earlier sections which ultimately provides the support for the comprehensive assessment procedure for natural argumentation the first two levels of this innovative procedure are outlined while the third that dealing with language and involving the development of an informal argument semantics is fully described the use of the system and its power of analysis are illustrated through the evaluation of a variety of examples of argumentative texts
