this is a book about the men and women who police contemporary south africa drawing on rich original ethnographical data it considers how officers make sense of their jobs and how they find meaning in their duties it demonstrates that the dynamics that lead to police abuses and scandals in transitional and neo liberalising regimes such as south africa can be traced to the day to day experiences and ambitions of the average police officer it is about the stories they tell themselves about themselves and their social worlds and how these shape the order they produce through their work by focusing on police officers this book positions the individual in primacy over the organisation asking what policing looks like when motivated by the pursuit of ontological security in precarious contexts it acknowledges but downplays the importance of police culture in determining officers attitudes and behaviour and reminds readers that most officers lives are entangled in and shaped by a range of social political and cultural forces it suggests that a job in the south african police service saps is primarily just that a job most officers join the organisation after other dreams have slipped beyond reach their presence in the service being almost accidental but once employed they re write their self narratives and enact carefully choreographed performances to ease managerial and public pressure and to rationalize their coercive practices in an era where evidence and what works reigns supreme and where cop culture is often deemed a primary socializing force this book emphasises how officers personal histories ambitions and vulnerabilities remain central to how policing unfolds on the street the journal of police studies is a quarterly which is oriented towards high standard quality contributions on policing issues and phenomena that are of interest to the police topics are approached from a specialist and if required multidisciplinary point of view the volume looks to answer questions regarding the developments of police and police cooperation in europe at the supranational level as well as explore the reactions of police organizations in individual european countries to the process of transnationalisation in terms of the design of and philosophy within police organizations authorities often fear societal change as it implies finding a new balance to live together within society whether it is defined by economic political social or cultural factors the transformation of life in society is considered by authorities as a risk that needs to be framed and controlled the state s response to this situation of transformation can be analysed through the prism of the police informally or not police systems adapt their regulatory frameworks their structures and their practices in order to respond risks new threats and new rules this process which is mostly of a contemporary nature is also deeply historic analysing it on the long run is therefore particularly relevant from the late nineteenth century until the second half of the twentieth century policing new risks in modern european history provides a panorama of political and police reactions to the risks of societal change in a western european perspective focusing on belgium france and the netherlands but also colonial perspectives nl arms 2016 offers a collection of studies on the interrelatedness of safety and security in military organizations so as to anticipate or even prepare for dire situations the volume contains a wide spectrum of contributions on organizing for safety and security in a military context that are theoretically as well as empirically relevant theoretically the contributions draw upon international security studies safety science and organizational studies empirically case studies address the reality of safety and security in national crisis management logistics and unconventional warfare focusing amongst others on rule of law during missions in which expeditionary military forces are involved in policing tasks to restore and reinforce safety and security and on the impact of rule of law on societal security the result is a truly unique volume that may serve practitioners policymakers and academics in gaining a better understanding of organizing for the security safety nexus
