in may 1999 a second conference of hellenists of all periods and subject areas from the dutch speaking countries was organized in groningen the theme of this second conference was constructions of greek past identity and historical consciousness from antiquity to the present the conference theme was described as follows when seeking to establish its own identity a culture country people nation readily resorts to its own history which it uses either as an example or as something to react against in recent years there has been a growing awareness that this process often reveals more about a culture in the present day than the historical era to which it harks back its own identity and thus its own history are constructed in this way the constructional approach is usually applied to the birth of new nation states and the development of their national ideologies particularly in the nineteenth century but it can be applied more broadly too greek culture is an excellent subject area for studying this phenomenon even further back in history precisely because its history is so long and included several golden ages to which later periods could and can hark back greek culture still presents itself as a product of ancient greek and or byzantine culture however the problem of continuity in greek culture has frequently manifested itself particularly during periods of radical political ideological or demographic change the homeric influence on the mycenaean world is therefore also an aspect of this phenomenon the homeric world served as an example for later periods as did the attic period for the greeks in the hellenistic roman age the tensions between the hellenistic and roman character of the greek world had a strong influence on the shaping of the greek identity during late antiquity and the middle ages those tensions still exist today ellenismós ellenikótita v romiosyni the theme was designed to bring together hellenists of all periods and disciplines literature language history archaeology ecclesiastical history sociology etc relating to the greek world the colloquium sessions were held in dutch but the papers are published in english two in french when we think of minorities linguistic ethnic religious regional or racial in world politics conflict is often the first thing that comes to mind indeed discord and tension are the depressing norms in many states across the globe iraq the former yugoslavia sudan israel sri lanka burma rwanda and many more but as david lublin points out in this magisterial survey of minority based political groups across the globe such parties typically function fairly well within larger polities in minority rules he eschews the usual approach of shining attention on conflict and instead looks at the representation of minority groups in largely peaceful and democratic countries throughout the world from the tiniest nations in polynesia to great powers like russia specifically he examines factors behind the electoral success of ethnic and regional parties and alternatively their failure to ever coalesce to explain how peaceful democracies manage relations between different groups contrary to theories that emphasize sources of minority discontent that exacerbate ethnic cleavages for instance disputes over control of natural resource wealth minority rules demonstrates that electoral rules play a dominant role in explaining not just why ethnic and regional parties perform poorly or well but why one potential ethnic cleavage emerges instead of another this is important because the emergence of ethnic regional parties along with the failure to incorporate them meaningfully into political systems has long been associated with ethnic conflict therefore lublin s findings which derive from an unprecedentedly rich empirical foundation have important implications not only for reaching successful settlements to such conflicts but also for preventing violent majority minority conflicts from ever occurring in the first place first published in 1979 european demography and economic growth presents a collection of essays on the demographic development of individual european economies like austria hungary germany france italy norway portugal etc it provides a comparative analysis to clarify many crucial issues connected with the growth in european population from mid eighteenth century it looks at the suitable criteria for assessing the applicability of general theory to the experience of individual nations it showcases the over riding contrast between substantial economic variations on a national and regional level and the existence of common underlying demographic trends this book will be useful for scholars and researchers of economic history political economy european history population geography and economics in general
