first published in 1986 sikh separatism is a comprehensive study of the emergence of sikh unrest in india the appearance of sikh fundamentalism and separatism is not a sudden development they are both shown to have deep social and historical roots linked to the growth of contemporary sikh identity community and organization the genesis of sikh communal consciousness and organization lies in a social and religious reform movement among sikhs from the 1870s to the 1920s this movement is believed to have moulded sikh perceptions of their political interests and resulted in the establishment of an institutional framework which has served as an arena and a base for sikh separatism the development of this reform movement and its motivations the strategies and tactics employed by the reformers and its profound political implications are examined this book will be of interest to students of political science international relations and south asian studies in this comprehensive analysis of india s cultural patterns and processes the authors address both the diversity and the unity of india s culture emphasizing the spatial distribution of cultural forms hindu nationalism in south india engages with a range of factors that shapes the trajectory of hindu nationalism in kerala the southern state of india until recently kerala was considered a socio political exception which had no room for hindu nationalism this book questions such panglossian prognosis and shows the need to map the ideological and political growth of hindu nationalism which has been downplayed in the academic discourse as temporary aberrations the introduction to the book places kerala in the context of south india arguing that hindutva is a real force which needs to be contended within theoretical and empirical terms the chapters in this book examine hindu nationalism in kerala in relation to themes such as history caste culture post truth ideology gender politics and the indian national space considering the rise of hindu nationalism in the recent years this pioneering book will be of interest to students and academics studying politics in particular nationalism asian politics and religion and politics and south asian studies this book is not intended to provide a list of the 100 best books ever written and published by punjabi authors given the sheer range of books written by punjabi authors and the unpredictability of individual taste any such definitive list is quite impossible secondly the choice has been restricted to books that were written by them either in punjabi hindi or urdu but have been translated into english thus personal choice restricted by availability has dictated this selection the choice of books includes autobiographies novels short stories poems and plays research books religious books and books written originally in english have not been included from the introduction i am amazed at the scholarship the passion and the love with which paramjeet singh has written this book it will be a reference volume for all times nirupama dutt poet journalist translator mr singh s effort is commendable as he is making available some of the rarest of gems of punjabi literature to the non punjabi readers i congratulate mr singh on putting together this selection and hope that non punjabi readers of this book would find new horizons of cultural experience opening up before them of course for punjabi readers it may be yet another opportunity to experience a sense of genuine pride in their rich legacy of language literature and culture prof rana nayar british columbia is canada's most ethnically diverse province although the presence of asian religions is felt and discussed in many regions we know little about the religions that accompanied immigrants from asia or how they are practised today asian religions in british columbia brings together fourteen religious studies scholars who offer intimate portraits of local religious groups including hindus and sikhs from south asia buddhist organizations from southeast asia and tibetan japanese and chinese religions from east and central asia although the geographical focus is particular the conceptual focus is broad the authors explore each religious tradition in the larger context of canadian multiculturalism as the first comprehensive and comparative examination of asian religions in british columbia this book is mandatory reading for teachers policy makers scholars of british columbia history and asian canadian studies or anyone who wants to be well informed about this province and nation cinema and secularism is the first collection to make the relationship between cinema and secularism thematic utilizing a number of different methodological approaches to examine their identification and differentiation across film theory film aesthetics film history and throughout global cinema the emergence of moving images and the history of cinema historically coincide with the emergence of secularism as a concept and discourse more than historically coinciding however cinema and secularism would seem to have and many contemporary theorists and critics seem to assume a more intrinsic almost ontological connection to each other while early film theorists and critics explicitly addressed questions about secularism religion and cinema once the study of film was professionalized and secularized in the western academy in both film studies and religious studies explicit and critical attention to the relationship between cinema and secularism rapidly declined indeed if one canvases film scholarship today one will find barely any works dedicated to thinking critically about the relationship between cinema and secularism extending the recent secular turn in the humanities and social sciences cinema and secularism provokes critical reflection on its titular concepts making contributions to theory philosophy criticism and history the chapters in this pioneering volume collectively interrogate the assumption that cinema is secular how secularism is conceived and related to cinema differently in different film cultures and whether the world is disenchanted or enchanted in cinema coming from intellectually diverse backgrounds in film studies religious studies and philosophy the interdisciplinary contributors to this book cover films and traditions of thought from america europe africa the middle east south asia and east asia in these ways cinema and secularism opens new areas of inquiry in the study of film and contributes to the ongoing interrogation of secularism more broadly
