this study explores the way calvinist experientialism provided both a theology and an epistemology in the poetry of five early modern english poets william shakespeare robert herrick john donne fulke greville and john milton in both official church ecclesiology and informal devotional practice the reformation introduced the idea that an individual s experience of devotion did not only entail feeling but also thought for early modern english people bodily experience offered a means of corroborating and verifying devotional truth making the invisible visible and knowable this volume maintains that these religious developments gave early modern thinkers and poets a new epistemological framework for imagining and interpreting devotional intention and access these reformed models for devotion not only shaped how people experienced their encounters with god the changing religious landscape of post reformation england also held profound implications for how english poets described sexual longing and access to earthly beloveds in the literary production of the period in placing the works of english poets in conversation with devotional writers such as william perkins samuel hieron joseph hall and william gouge this book demonstrates how the english calvinist tradition attributed epistemological potential to a wide range of ordinary experience including sexual experience
