countries exporting primary commodities high agricultural productivity and a good investment climate allowed countries in northwest europe to industrialize rapidly while the favorable terms of trade they enjoyed assured them and the temperate lands to which europeans migrated of continuing dominance over the tropical countries at the core of the author s argument lies the contention that as the structure of international trade changes the tropical countries move rapidly toward becoming net importers of agricultural commodities and net exporters of manufactures even so they continue to depend on the markets of the richer countries for their growth and they continue to trade on unfavorable terms both of these disadvantages he concludes stem from large agricultural sectors with low productivity and will disappear only as the technology of tropical food production is revolutionized originally published in 1978 the princeton legacy library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of princeton university press these editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions the goal of the princeton legacy library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by princeton university press since its founding in 1905
