a pioneering critic educator and poet i a richards 1893 1979 helped the english speaking world decide not only what to read but how to read it acknowledged father of new criticism he produced the most systematic body of critical writing in the english language since coleridge his method of close reading dominated the english speaking classroom for half a century john paul russo draws on close personal acquaintance with richards as well as on unpublished materials correspondence and interviews to write the first biography originally published in 1989 of one of last century s most influential and many sided men of letters no treatment of modern criticism is possible without discussing i a richards since in the most literal sense his influence combined with that of t s eliot and f r leavis served to create it as one of seminal thinkers paving the way for the development of new criticism richards made a systematic attempt to formulate a theory of poetry in consonance with the demands of modern scientific thought the present book stems from the need to offer an objective appraisal of richards thought system in the context of the evolution of his ideas in foundations of aesthetics the meaning of meaning principles of literary criticism science and poetry later reissued as poetries and sciences and practical criticism in the context of wide spread misinterpretations and distortions of richards point of view the author has tried throughout this inter disciplinary work to allow richards to speak for himself while unfolding the subtle suggestive and consistent nature of richards early writings the book studies his criticism of modern poets like t s eliot w b yeats g m hopkins thomas hardy and d h lawrence the chapter on practical criticism throws light on richards technique of evaluating poems and teaches the art of appreciating poetry this is volume 10 of a collection of ten of the selected works of i a this volume presents a selection of contemporary criticism discussing those of richards works published between 1919 and 1938 this volume of articles comprises papers from the 25th annual conference of the poetics and linguistics association pala which was held at the university of huddersfield england in july 2005 the theme of the conference was stylistics and social cognition and as usual at a pala conference this theme was interpreted very widely by the participants as the reader of this book will no doubt conclude at the heart of this volume there is something of a reaction against the cognitive developments in stylistics which might be seen as being in danger of privileging the individual interpretation of literature over something more social the concern is to consider whether there is a more collective approach that could be taken to the meaning of text and whether recent insights from cognitive stylistics could work with this idea of collectivity to define something we might call commonality of meaning in texts stylistics and social cognition will be of interest to those working in stylistics and other text analytic fields such as critical discourse analysis and those concerned with notions of interpretation collective meaning and human communication this illuminating collection documents the life and friendships of one of the century s most influential philosophers of language and aesthetics following richards s career from his first undergraduate days at magdalene college in 1911 to the end of his life at cambridge the letters describe his epoch making lectures and books of the twenties and thirties his years of campaigning in the far east on behalf of basic english and his life as chair at harvard in which he speaks of eliot wittgenstein chairman mao and robert lowell among others this book first published in 1965 provides an interdisciplinary approach to the work of i a richards this study is particularly concerned with ideas about education literary theory language philosophy and psychology and focuses on many of richard s most important works including the meaning of meaning and the philosophy of rhetoric
