recognising the complex and contested nature of both sustainability and governance this book covers the challenges for governance and sustainability a critique of established models of governance a redesign of governance for sustainability and how to implement governance for sustainability

this book presents an update on the debate about strategic organization dynamics and contemporary corporate governance mechanisms the almost complete absence of studies that cross strategic and corporate governance represented a challenge for researchers it was necessary to find how the frames of reference of the social sciences and especially that of strategic management we have chosen to apply contemporary corporate mechanism for much organization crosses between reflection and management sciences particularly from the perspective of organizational behaviour are becoming long governance mechanisms often in several important corporate strategic it provided us with a set of reference points and lines of value that should be mobilized in the contemporary context to analyze and identify the problematic of strategic organization dynamics and contemporary corporate governance mechanisms the origins of this book lie in the second oxford law colloquium held in september 1992 and organized by the faculty of law of the university of oxford and allen and overy the subject of this volume corporate governance is one that is currently highly topical but which has a long intellectual pedigree ever since the formation of the first joint stock company there has been a continuing debate about the structure of corporate governance and the controls both legal and institutional that are or should be exercised over corporate management the essays contained in the volume explore the debate from a variety of perspectives but each keeps in mind that a clear understanding of the wider commercial and financial context is necessary before examining the relevant legal structures and rules this wider picture is examined at both a national and comparative level and the attitudes and practices of managers and investors are considered as part of the backdrop to competing theories on corporate governance the contributors drawn from the practising and the academic worlds bring their own specialist knowledge to bear in a volume which will be required reading for all those interested in the subject contributors robin leigh pemberton eddy wymeersch sir adrian cadbury paul rutteman paul davies lord alexander of weedon paddy linaker martin lipton alan paul theodor baums geoff stapledon
