a chilling tale of murder and passion deep in the bayou from the orange prize winning author of property claude is a middle aged man unwillingly attached to mona a woman obsessed with marriage and respectability then one night he meets the exotic alexandra regal tall and spare skittish and powerfully independent when her rich friend diana falls pregnant alexandra and claude agree to accompany her to diana s house hidden deep in the bayou where they will assist her with the birth they are joined by collie the housekeeper and banjo a drunken old handyman at the house claude hears a disturbing and haunting story of a man similar to himself who was also involved with alexandra and diana and was found murdered in a hotel room this is a gothic and mysterious tale set deep in the heart of the bayou

in the first book length study of valerie martin s fiction veronica makowsky explores the work of this lauded but often overlooked contemporary novelist winner of the orange prize for her novel property 2003 martin also won the kafka prize for mary reilly 1990 which was then translated into sixteen languages and made into a popular film despite these successes her critically acclaimed novels and stories have yet to attain a broad readership makowsky addresses this disconnect through a detailed critical study of martin s distinguished oeuvre grounding each work in its historical cultural and theoretical contexts makowsky begins with a sketch of martin s life and then considers each of her ten novels and four collections of short stories throughout makowsky s deft critique reveals martin to be an astute observer of people and places pointing to both early works like a recent martyr

1987 and recent books such as The Ghost of the Mary Celeste 2014 Makowsky identifies a potent mixture of pleasure and fear in Martin's writing that emphasizes the author's nuanced exploration of human imagination. Notable too are Martin's literary techniques especially point of view and her allusions to masterpieces in Western literature. The works of Henry and William James in particular influenced Martin's thematic blend of intellectualism and empathy evident in her rounded depictions of women in works like Italian Fever 1999 and The Great Divorce 1994. A rich and substantive study of the fiction of Valerie Martin demonstrates and deconstructs the mastery of this thought-provoking author in turn firmly establishing Martin's place in the canon of contemporary writers.

From the Orange Prize-winning author of Property, the story of a woman on the run from sexual obsession. An impressive writer, I admire her straightforward style and the intelligence and strength of her heroine Ann Tyler. Helene is a woman constantly on the run. A social worker, she spends her days trying to sort out other people's lives, but her need for professional detachment carries through to her private life where she is pursued by a series of needy men: one simply mad and obsessive, another a drug addict whose habit is all-consuming, the third the partner of her best friend who has a cruel, selfish streak. People see in her the sort of person in whom they can confide their secrets and desires, but Helene is determined never to give up the option to walk away.

An immensely satisfying story. The Guardian of Family War, art and betrayal set around an ancient ancestral home in the Tuscan countryside. From the bestselling award-winning author of Property, when Jan Vidor, an American writer and academic, rents an apartment in a Tuscan villa for the summer, she plans to spend her break working on a novel about Mussolini. Instead, she finds herself captivated by her aristocratic landlady, the elegant, acerbic Beatrice Salviati Bartolo Doyle, whose family has owned Villa Chiara for generations. Jan is intrigued by Beatrice's stories of World War II, particularly by the tragic fate of her uncle Sandro, who was mysteriously murdered in the driveway of the villa. At the conclusion of the war, day by day, Beatrice makes Jan privy to her family history. As years go by, and the friendship is sustained by infrequent meetings, Jan finds she can't resist writing Beatrice's story. But as she works on the novel, it becomes clear that the villa itself is at risk and that Beatrice is incapable of saving it. Jan understands that she is telling the story of a catastrophe her friend might prefer to conceal. She presses on.

From the award-winning author of Property and bestselling author of Mary Reilly, a bold retelling of a familiar, beloved story. Los Angeles Times inspired by the fresco cycles that depict the life of St. Francis of Assisi, drawing from myriad sources and moving in reverse chronological order, she begins in the dark final days with a suffering Francesco on the verge of death. Then she shows us the unwashed and innocent revolutionary, unafraid to lecture a pope on Christ's message. We see his mystical friendship with Chiara di Offreducci, a nobleman's daughter who turns her back on the world to join him, and finally the frivolous young Francesco on the deserted road where his encounter with a leper leads him to an ecstatic embrace of God. Salvation is at once an illuminating glimpse into the medieval world and an original and intimate portrait of the man whose legend has resonated through the centuries.

from the bestselling author of Mary Reilly and prize winning author of Property comes a riveting story of three women in New Orleans who must face the repercussions of sex betrayal and the wilder side of human nature haunting an utterly compelling work of fiction. The New York Times Three Surprising Women. Their lives riven by divorce both literal and metaphorical. Ellen Clayton reeling from her husband's decision to leave her after twenty years finds meaning in caring for her teenage daughters and in her work as the veterinarian at the New Orleans Zoo. Her young assistant Camille preyed on by a series of contemptuous men. Experiences bizarre episodes in which she feels herself transforming into one of the great cats in her care. And Elisabeth Boyer, a passionate Creole aristocrat trapped on her husband's antebellum plantation finds deliverance in the form of a black leopard, a powerful merciless ally from the wild. Their unfolding stories blur distinctions of time, class and social construct to reveal the ordinary and extraordinary measures required to make our fractured world whole.

Part romance, part gothic suspense story, this is the compelling tale of an American woman's awakening as she tumbles headlong into a mystery of art and eros. From the bestselling award-winning author of Property, spellbinding a virtuoso, Martin's competence has kindled into brilliance. The New York Times Book Review. Lucy leads a quiet solitary life working for a best-selling but remarkably untalented writer. When he dies at his villa in Tuscany, Lucy flies to Tuscany to settle his affairs. What begins as a grim chore soon threatens Stark's Emersonian self-reliance and her very sense of what is real. The villa harbors secrets: a missing manuscript, neighbors whose Byzantine arrogance veils their dark past, a phantom whose nocturnal visits tear a gaping hole in Lucy's well-honed skepticism. And to complicate matters, Massimo, a married man whose tender attentions render Lucy breathless, smart, sophisticated, achingly beautiful. Italian Fever is one of the most original and compelling novels of the year.

Spellbinding. New York Times entrancingly good. Financial Times a narrative gift that can raise the hairs at the top of the spine. Sunday Times in the six stories that make up the unfinished novel, Valerie Martin turns an unflinching eye upon artists driven and blocked, desired and detested, infamous and sublime as they struggle beneath the tyranny of art to reconcile their audience with their muse. A painter who owes his small success to a man he despises discovers that his passivity has cost him the love that might have set him free. An actress struggles with the guilt she still feels twenty years after an affair with a young actor whose promise mysteriously vaporized after a performance of Hamlet. A starving artist inhabits a bleak netherworld where pride is a luxury no one can afford. A writer of modest talents encounters the old love who once betrayed him; now she repels him, yet the unfinished novel she leaves in his hands may surpass anything he could ever produce himself. The last stories in the collection take us to Rome and a room with a limited view and to a Brooklyn studio where a window opens onto limitless space. In the eternal city, an American poet is forced to choose between her lover, a dancer who has outraged academe, and a world so alien it takes her voice away. In the final story, a print maker who has reached a certain age enters so deeply into the magical world of her imagination that she can never find her way back.

Two women: Chloe Dale, an artist comfortably ensconced in bucolic suburbia, and Salome Drago, a wily seductive refugee from a country that no longer exists confront each other in a manhattan restaurant and the battle lines are drawn toby dale son of the artist and ardent suitor of the refugee is in no position to choose sides outside the drumbeats for the impending invasion of iraq drown out all argument and those who object will soon be reduced to standing in the street the story of two families suspicious territorial naïve in their confidence that they are free of the past trespass unfolds with commanding force it is a bracing tender novel for the 21st century

few have written so surprisingly so convincingly as valerie martin about sexual obsession and the perverse twistings of the human heart margaret atwood the writing so prised and clean limbed is a marvel toni morrison set in new orleans this is a novel about a love triangle married mother emma miller is bored with her husband her job and her life so she begins a passionate often violent affair with pascal toussaint a sadist with whom she becomes obsessed pascal in the meantime is fixated on a young novice called claire d anjou claire seems rather cold is devout to an extreme and is prone to visions pascal s father describes her as not satisfied with being only mortal emma endures the same sort of self effacement in her relationship with paul as claire does in her struggle towards religious purity this is all set against the backdrop of a city overrun by rats and awash with a mysterious plague

valerie martin s property delivers an eerily mesmerizing inquiry into slavery s venomous effects on the owner and the owned the year is 1828 the setting a louisiana sugar plantation where manon gaudet pretty bitterly intelligent and monstrosly self absorbed seethes under the dominion of her boorish husband in particular his relationship with her slave sarah who is both his victim and his mistress exploring the permutations of manon s own obsession with sarah against the backdrop of an impending slave rebellion property unfolds with the speed and menace of heat lightning casting a startling light from the past upon the assumptions we still make about the powerful and powerful
