popular american essayist novelist and journalist charles dudley warner 1829 1900 was renowned for the warmth and intimacy of his writing which encompassed travelogue biography and autobiography fiction and more and influenced entire generations of his fellow writers here the prolific writer turned editor for his final grand work a splendid survey of global literature classic and modern and it's not too much to suggest that if his friend and colleague Mark Twain who stole Warner's quip about how everybody complains about the weather but nobody does anything about it had assembled this set it would still be hailed today as one of the great achievements of the book world. Highlights from Volume 5 include the letters of Otto Edward Leopold von Bismarck, poems by Bjørnstjerne Bjørnson, excerpts from Richard Doddridge Blackmore's Lorna Doone, poems by William Blake, art criticism by Charles Blanc, and Johann Jakob Bodmer poems by Mathilde Blind, the writings of Giovanni Boccaccio, an essay by Saint Bonaventura, hymns by Sir John Bowring, and much more.

A replacement of the author's well-known book on translation theory in search of a theory of translation (1980) this book makes a case for descriptive translation studies as a scholarly activity as well as a branch of the discipline having immediate consequences for issues of both a theoretical and applied nature. Methodological discussions are complemented by an assortment of case studies of various scopes and levels with emphasis on the need to contextualize whatever one sets out to focus on. Part one deals with the position of descriptive studies within TS and justifies the author's choice to devote a whole book to the subject. Part two gives a detailed rationale for descriptive studies in translation and serves as a framework for the case studies comprising part three. Concrete descriptive issues are here tackled within ever-growing contexts of a higher level texts and modes of translational behaviour in the appropriate cultural setup. Textual components in texts and through these texts in cultural constellations. Part four asks the question what is knowledge accumulated through descriptive studies performed within one and the same framework likely to yield in terms of theory and practice. This is an excellent book for higher level translation courses.
