monotheism tawhīd as attested to by the cosmos known through reason explicated in revelation and exemplified by the lives of the righteous forms the core of the Islamic worldview a conviction in this unadulterated monotheism unifies Muslims across time and place it is found in the core profession of faith the shahāda and is reinforced by thousands of Qur'anic verses and prophetic teachings drawing on the Qur'anic discourse sayings of the prophet Muhammad and select theological works this element provides a concise and accessible introduction to the most fundamental concept in Islamic thought the work explains the nature and attributes of God and examines how tawhīd informs conceptions of truth morality piety and virtue this volume contains Freud's speculations on various aspects of religion on the basis of which he explains certain characteristics of Jewish people in their relations with christians from an intensive study of the moses legend freud comes to the startling conclusion that moses himself was an egyptian who brought from his native country the religion he gave to the jews he accepts the hypothesis that moses was murdered in the wilderness but that his memory was cherished by the people and that his religious doctrine ultimately triumphed freud develops his general theory of monotheism which enabled him to throw light on the development of judaism and christianity the emotional turn in scholarship has changed the way in which historians of religion think about monotheistic traditions new histories of religion have adapted and incorporated the totalizing sensibilities of twentieth century annalistes the granular view of social historians groundbreaking philosophical investigations and the spirit of interdisciplinary collaboration between historical analysis anthropology and psychology religion as a principal bearer of culture has shaped emotional life profoundly just as human emotion has constituted religious life taking a qualified constructivist approach to emotion enables understanding of the dynamism fluidity and ambiguity in emotional experience alongside continuities and facilitates analysis of how that feeling has animated religious life in monotheistic traditions it equally sharpens insight into how monotheistic religion itself has made emotion affect emotion and mixed emotions are three categories of feelings evidenced in monotheistic religions each is illustrated with respect to the similarities and differences among judaism christianity and islam symbolising i e representing through the use of media is a more elementary more foundational activity than the self conscious use of the intellect its exploration is central to this investigation of the transformation of the pre exilic yahweh religion into the monotheism of the post exilic period that transformation was triggered by a new constellation of key media in the pre exilic and exilic periods writing images and money the central objective is to understand how their use contributed to a decisive increase in abstraction in representation and led to changes in the conceptualisation of divine presence and its representation that ultimately resulted in the transition from monolatry to monotheism in this study joachim schaper explores neglected areas of judahite material culture and contributes to an in depth reconstruction of judah s religious history in its most important epoch and thus of one of the key developments in the religious history of humanity in moses and monotheism freud speculates that moses was not jewish but actually born into ancient egyptian nobility and was perhaps a follower of akhenaten an ancient egyptian monotheist freud further suggests that moses led only his close followers into freedom during an unstable period in egyptian history and that his followers subsequently killed moses in rebellion afterward freud speculates that the guilt from the murder of moses is inherited through the generations this guilt then drives the jews to religion to make them feel better the concept and belief that god is one was an essential feature of old testament theology in reviewing a number of passages the primary focus of this book to a large extent has been on deuteronomy 6 4 the shema understanding what this meant in ancient israel provides the clues to a deeper understanding in this present era a number of materials studies documents and references have provided a body of knowledge that will greatly aide and assist any believer to better define clarify and defend the long held belief custom and practice that god is one other essential factors in this book discuss and to some extent contrast and compare the concept of monotheism and oneness to better explain conceptually how these build the structure and framework that supports the position that god is numerically one
