by extending their voyages to all oceans from the 1760s onward whaling vessels from north america and europe spanned a novel net of hunting grounds maritime routes supply posts and transport chains across the globe for obtaining provisions cutting firewood recruiting additional men and transshipping whale products these highly mobile hunters regularly frequented coastal places and islands along their routes which were largely determined by the migratory movements of their prey american style pelagic whaling thus constituted a significant though often overlooked factor in connecting people and places between distant world regions during the long nineteenth century focusing on africa this book investigates side effects resulting from stopovers by whalers for littoral societies on the economic social political and cultural level for this purpose it draws on eight local case studies four from africa s west coast and four from its east coast in the overall picture the book shows a broad range of effects and side effects of different forms and strengths which it figures as a grey undercurrent of global history this book introduces readers to the age of intra african migration a period from the mid 19th century onward in which the center of gravity of african migration moved decisively inward most books tend to zoom in on africa s external migration during the earlier intercontinental slave trades and the more recent outmigration to the global north but this book argues that migration within the continent has been far more central to the lives of africans over the course of the last two centuries the book demonstrates that only by taking a broad historical and continent wide perspective can we understand the distinctions between the more immediate drivers of migration and deeper patterns of change over time during the 19th century africa s external slave trades gradually declined whilst africa s expanding commodity export sectors drew in domestic labor this led to an era of heightened mobility within the region marked by rapidly rising and vanishing migratory flows increasingly diversified landscapes of migration systems and profound long term shifts in the wider patterns of migration this era of inward focused mobility reduced with a resurgence of outmigration after 1960 when africans became more deliberate in search of extra continental destinations with new diaspora communities emerging specifically in the global north broad ranging in its temporal spatial and thematic coverage this book provides students and researchers with the perfect introduction to age of intra african migration this book explores the first encounter in the mid fifteenth century between western Europe and the West African coast arguing that it did not produce hostility but rather a climate of beneficial mutual exchange. It examines West African pre-colonial social history and asserts that around the year 1500 West Africa became a safe haven for those fleeing political or religious persecution in Europe. Among them were mercantile settlers, tangomãos or lançados, known to have arrived on the West African coast. After the Portuguese explorers in 1446, they exchanged commodities, culture, religious ideas, and practices with West African people.
