the second edition of race ethnicity and gender selected readings offers comprehensive varied and highly readable views of the problems of racism and sexism in american society editors joseph f healey and eileen t o brien present a variety of perspectives on some of the most pressing problems facing american society racism and prejudice inequality and discrimination and assimilation and pluralism this new edition includes historical perspectives case studies of minority groups a strong emphasis on gender clashing perspectives on contemporary problems and a chapter on solutions this work reflects on the core issues related to the national and racial mythologies that have been central to nation building in china and japan over the last century the contributors demonstrate how the process of modern myth making and racial identity politics has been at work in the region

this collection of original essays by scholars from a diverse range of fields examines issues of race in a variety of historical and geographical settings ranging from classical greece to the contemporary americas europe and asia the authors provide an important perspective on race both in its theoretical origins and in its actual appearances while paying close attention to the ways in which the study of race itself has been carried on or ignored by various disciplines this groundbreaking collection of classic and cutting edge sociological research gives special attention to the social construction of race and ethnicity in the united states it offers an in depth and eye opening analysis of a the power of racial classification to shape our understanding of race and race relations b the way in which the system came into being and remains and c the real consequences this system has on life chances the readings deal with five major themes the personal experience of classification schemes classifying people by race ethnic classification the persistence functions and consequences of social classification and a new paradigm transcending categories for individuals who want to gain a fuller understanding of the impact the ideas of race has on a society that is consumed by it in this pathbreaking work the author integrates questions of justice and stability through a model of deliberative democracy in the plural polity deliberative democracy and the plural polity provides a realistic but critical reform agenda that can animate struggles for justice in an enormously diverse world race in the making provides a new understanding of how people conceptualize social categories and shows why this knowledge is so readily recruited to create and maintain systems of unequal power hirschfeld argues that knowledge of race is not derived from observations of physical difference nor does it develop in the same way as knowledge of other social categories instead his central claim is that racial thinking is the product of a special purpose cognitive competence for understanding and representing human kinds the book also challenges the conventional wisdom that race is purely a social construction by demonstrating that a common set of abstract principles underlies all systems of racial thinking whatever other historical and cultural specificities may be associated with them starting from the commonplace observation that race is a category of both power and the mind race in the making directly tackles this issue through a sustained exploration of continuity and change in the child s notion of race and across historical variations in the race concept hirschfeld shows that a singular commonsense theory about human kinds constrains the way racial thinking changes whether in historical time or during childhood after surveying the literature on the development of a cultural psychology of race hirschfeld presents original studies that examine children s and occasionally adults representations of race he sketches how a jointly cultural and psychological approach to race might proceed showing how this approach yields new insights into the emergence and elaboration of racial thinking
