this handbook provides a comprehensive problem driven and dynamic overview of the future of warfare the volatilities and uncertainties of the global security environment raise timely and important questions about the future of humanity's oldest occupation war this volume addresses these questions through a collection of cutting edge contributions by leading scholars in the field its overall focus is prognostic rather than futuristic highlighting discernible trends key developments and themes without downplaying the lessons from the past by making the past meet the present in order to envision the future the handbook offers a diversified outlook on the future of warfare which will be indispensable for researchers students and military practitioners alike the volume is divided into six thematic sections section i draws out general trends in the phenomenon of war and sketches the most significant developments from the past to the present and into the future section ii looks at the areas and domains which actively shape the future of warfare section iii engages with the main theories and conceptions of warfare capturing those attributes of contemporary conflicts which will most likely persist and determine the dynamics and directions of their transformations the fourth section addresses differentiation and complexity in the domain of warfare pointing to those factors which will exert a strong impact on the structure and properties of that domain section v focuses on technology as the principal trigger of changes and alterations in the essence of warfare the final section draws on the general trends identified in section i and sheds light on how those trends have manifested in specific local contexts this section zooms in on particular geographies which are seen and anticipated as hotbeds where future warfare will most likely assume its shape and reveal its true colours this book will be of great interest to students of strategic studies defence studies war and technology and international relations intensifying geopolitical rivalries rising defence spending and the proliferation of the latest military technology across asia suggest that the region is set for a prolonged period of strategic contestation none of the three competing visions for the future of asian order a us led free and open indo pacific a chinese centred order or the asean inspired indo pacific outlook is likely to prevail in the short to medium term in the absence of a new framework the risk of open conflict is heightened and along with it the need for effective mechanisms to maintain peace and stability as asia s leaders seek to rebuild their economies and societies in the wake of covid 19 they would do well to reflect upon the lessons offered by the pandemic and their applicability in the strategic realm the societies that have navigated the crisis most effectively have been able to do so by putting in place stringent protective measures crisis management and avoidance mechanisms and even in the longer term wider arms control can be seen as the strategic equivalent of such measures and as such they should be pursued with urgency in asia to reduce the risks of an even greater calamity
