in the twilight of the social henry a giroux looks at the decline of social spaces which enable grievances to be dealt with and considers new ways in which citizens can create social spaces today after decades of neoliberalism today s young people lack a voice and are saddled with economic political and social conditions that have rendered them marginalised and ultimately disposable giroux covers a broad range of topics from youth and the promise of new media technologies the economic darwinism of globalisation and the need for a renewed democratic culture the twilight of the social is a compelling account of the erosion in recent decades of the very idea of the social in america and other societies in the burden of conscience giroux confronts the insidious rise of fascism infiltrating today's politics and education alongside the suffocating silence that paralyzes our will to resist and speak truth to power he decries the moral apathy in the face of the slaughter of children in israel and the mass killing in gaza positioning this silence as part of a broader ominous affliction of our age the fusion of colonialism and neoliberal capitalism he calls for a groundswell of resistance urging a movement to reclaim education as a public good where critical education becomes an expression of freedom a crucible of literacy liberation and collective empowerment drawing on his own childhood he intertwines the personal with the political unearthing the complexities of class whiteness and race showing that individual and collective actions must converge to dismantle oppressive systems finally he argues that education is a powerful tool giving us in the words of gayatri chakravorty spivak the power to think the absent only through this awakening can a critical public consciousness emerge sparking a multiracial working class movement capable of challenging entrenched systems of oppression and bringing about true social transformation and radical democracy in this major new assessment of zygmunt bauman's work smith gives a clear introduction to this controversial and challenging sociologist with its dream worlds of power commercialization and profit making neoliberalism has ushered in new gilded age in which the logic of the market now governs every aspect of media culture and social life from schooling to health care to old age as the social contract becomes a distant memory the new corporate state distances itself from workers and minority groups who become more disposable in a new age of uncertainty and manufactured fear this is the only book to connect the history ideology and consequences of neoliberal policies to education and cultural issues that pervade almost every aspect of daily life a significantly revised and updated new version of giroux's 2003 book the terror of neoliberalism this book points to ways in which neoliberal ideology can be resisted and how new forms of citizenship and collective struggles can be forged to reclaim the meaning both of a substantive politics and of a democratic society against the terror of neoliberalism was featured in the new york times in the stanley fish blog stanley fish blog recently american youth have demonstrated en masse about a variety of issues ranging from economic injustice and massive inequality to drastic cuts in education and public services youth in revolt chronicles the escalating backlash against dissent and peaceful protest while exposing a lack of governmental concern for society's most vulnerable populations henry giroux carefully documents a wide range of phenomena from pervasive violent imagery in our popular culture to educational racism censorship and the growing economic inequality we face he challenges the reader to consider the hope for democratic renewal embodied by occupy wall street and other emerging movements encouraging a capacity for critical thought compassion and informed judgment giroux s analysis allows us to rethink the very nature of what democracy means and what it might look like in the united states and beyond
