hemistry is the science about breaking and forming of bonds between atoms one of the most important processes for organic chemistry is breaking bonds $c-h$ as well as $c-c$ in various compounds and primarily in hydrocarbons among hydrocarbons saturated hydrocarbons alkanes methane ethane propane hexane etc are especially attractive as substrates for chemical transformations this is because on the one hand alkanes are the main constituents of oil and natural gas and consequently are the principal feedstocks for chemical industry on the other hand these substances are known to be the less reactive organic compounds saturated hydrocarbons may be called the noble gases of organic chemistry and if so the first representative of their family methane may be compared with extremely inert helium as in all comparisons this parallel between noble gases and alkanes is not fully accurate indeed the transformations of alkanes including methane have been known for a long time these reactions involve the interaction with molecular oxygen from air burning the main source of energy as well as some mutual interconversions of saturated and unsaturated hydrocarbons however all these transformations occur at elevated temperatures higher than 300 500 c and are usually characterized by a lack of selectivity the conversion of alkanes into carbon dioxide and water during burning is an extremely valuable process but not from a chemist viewpoint
