pribble investigates the barter economies that developed in many of the labor camps established under the khmer rouge in cambodia when the khmer rouge abolished currency and markets in 1975 starving cambodians created underground exchanges in labor camps throughout the country bartering luxury items for food and other necessities while simultaneously undermining the regime s ideological goals of eliminating any traces of capitalism in democratic kampuchea pribble asserts three key points about the barter economy in the khmer rouge labor camps first the underground exchanges in democratic kampuchea provided food and medicine for desperate people subsisting under a totalitarian regime saving the lives of countless cambodians second bartering was the riskiest way to obtain food because it was dependent upon the discretion of two or more individuals from different social classes under the threat of violent punishment thereby altering the social dynamics of the camps finally despite the regime s extreme efforts to eliminate foreign influence from the country and impose communist ideology on millions of citizens basic forms of market capitalism and a demand for superfluous luxury goods persisted in labor camps throughout the country a fascinating study of the human consequences of imposing rigid ideology that will be of particular interest to scholars and students of political history and southeast asian history the open access version of this book available at taylorfrancis.com has been made available under a creative commons attribution non commercial no derivatives 4.0 license fought during 1916 the battle of the somme was conceived by the french and british as a great offensive to be waged against germany even as france poured incredible numbers of men into the slaughterhouse that was the desperate defense of verdun the french general in chief joseph joffre was especially anxious to go on the offensive for the french high command cherished the belief born in the era of napoleon that the success of french arms depended on attack and that defense was anathema to what the nationalistic philosopher henri bergson called the élan vital of the french people a quality he argued that set the gallic race apart from the rest of the world after more than five months the british eked out a penetration of some six miles into german territory the cost had been 420 000 britons killed or wounded 70 000 men per mile gained and most of these were from kitchener s army so called pals battalions working and middle class volunteers promised that they could fight alongside their friends co workers and neighbors this meant that the somme more than any other battle before or since devastated the young male population of entire british towns villages and neighborhoods french losses were just under 200 000 the germans lost at least 650 000 just as the french refused to give up ground at verdun the germans held on stubbornly at the somme so stubbornly that general ludendorff actually complained that his men fought too doggedly clinging too resolutely to the mere holding of ground with the result that the losses were heavy the only thing conclusive about the somme was the ineluctable fact of death no battle ever fought in any conflict provided a stronger incentive for all sides to reach a negotiated peace the peace without victory that woodrow wilson still standing on the sidelines urged the combatants to agree upon instead the kaiser appalled both by verdun and the somme relieved falkenhayn and replaced him with hindenburg and ludendorff who had achieved great success on the eastern front the new commanders created two new defensive lines both well behind the somme front on the one hand it was a retreat on the other it was a commitment to draw the french and british farther east and invite them to sacrifice more of their soldiery the modest advance the british made was but the prelude to additional slaughter alexander thomas kindle iii better known as chubzy is excited to start school and make new friends but as chubzy meets his new fifth grade teacher mrs broomstickle strange things start to happen mrs broomstickle gives the children their homework assignment which consists of one piece of dark chocolate and an alarm clock at midnight the alarm clocks ring half of the children follow the instructions they eat the chocolate and go back to sleep the other half are too sound asleep to hear the alarms going off the chocolate transforms into evil dark creatures and slips into the mouths of the innocent children transforming them into their worst nightmare and someone outside the group mistakenly eats one of the tasty treats now the kids must work as a team and travel to the land of no beauty to locate the magic piper and the crystals which are heavily guarded and hidden each obstacle the children encounter becomes harder and more deadly than the next time is running out they need to find the magic piper and the six crystals to lift the curse meet malek khalil in his mid 40s malek is a brilliant reporter with decades of experience in the field if there has been a war natural disaster or political crisis malek has been there and will be there but the years of conflict reporting have taken their toll and malek is slowly unravelling his colleagues neeka and justin have noticed a change in him neeka should know she has been his producer for decades and knows him better than he knows himself justin the cameraman has shot his material for just as long together they make a formidable team but they are only as strong as each other and malek is fast going down the rabbit hole born a muslim but an atheist to his core malek undertakes a voyage that takes him around the world and back in time to ancient babylon as he finds himself arguing with a god in whom he doesn't believe the novel takes place throughout middle east south asia and london where the backdrop of war religion political skullduggery and love play out to take the reader on a journey through some of the most dangerous parts of modern culture and the ancient world in 2018 at the end of a speech rod dreher gave in genoa an artist gave him an engraving by his own hand in broken english the artist explained that he was in his studio that afternoon when the holy spirit told him that he should come hear rod dreher and give him a particular drawing of an obscure medieval saint none of this made sense to dreher until two years later lost in depression and confusion the saint a tuscan hermit named galgano appeared in dreher s life again under circumstances that did not at all seem coincidental sending dreher on a search for god s will for his life a lifetime of experiencing mystical events and collecting stories from others who have has solidified dreher s christian faith and convinced him that god reveals himself to us all the time but we in the modern west have lost our capacity to sense god s presence how did this happen to us but not to other peoples in the world can it be reversed if so how living in wonder tells the story of how the west became disenchanted and gives practical advice based on history cultural anthropology and neuroscience as well as the testimonies of monks of the ancient church on how to regain one s sense of wonder and awareness of the divine told through real life stories of people who experienced miracles visitations by saints and angels and in some cases wrestled with demons wonderworld will open your mind to the reality that the material world is not all there is and that god is not as silent and as elusive as you might think you just need to learn how to see with clear eyes join rod dreher as he explores why contemporary christianity seems so empty and why so many young people are walking away from it he argues that the enchanted sacramental vision of the church of the first millennium is still true only hidden and that the experience of god is something that can happen to anyone if they are willing to take risk
