narratives of place link people and geographic location with a cultural imaginary through literature and visual narration contemporary literature and film often frame narratives with specific geographic locations which saturate the narrative with cultural meanings in relation to natural and man made landscapes this interdisciplinary collection seeks to interrogate such connections to probe how place is narrativized in literature and film utilizing close readings of specific filmic and literary texts all chapters serve to tease out cultural and historical meanings in respect of human engagement with landscapes always mindful of national cultural and topographical specificity the book is structured around five core themes contested histories of place environmental landscapes cityscapes the social construction of place and landscapes of belonging

the four volumes of film study include a fresh approach to each of the basic categories in the original edition volume one examines the film as film volume two focuses on the thematic approach to film volume three draws on the history of film and volume four contains extensive appendices listing film distributors sources and historical information as well as an index of authors titles and film personalities for most people film adaptation of literature can be summed up in one sentence the movie wasn't as good as the book this volume undertakes to show the reader that not only is this evaluation not always true but sometimes it is intrinsically unfair movies based on literary works while often billed as adaptations are more correctly termed translations a director and his actors translate the story from the written page into a visual presentation depending on the form of the original text and the chosen method of translation certain inherent difficulties and pitfalls are associated with this change of medium so often our reception of a book based movie has more to do with our expectations and reading of the literature than with the job that the movie production did or did not do avoiding these biases and fairly evaluating any particular literary based film takes an awareness of certain factors written with a formalistic rather than historical approach this work presents a comprehensive guide to literature based films establishing a contextual and theoretical basis to help the reader understand the relationships between such movies and the original texts as well as the reader's own individual responses to these productions to this end it focuses on recognizing and appreciating the inherent difficulties encountered when basing a film on a literary work be it a novel novella play or short story individual chapters deal with the specific issues and difficulties raised by each of these genres providing an overview backed up by case studies of specific film translations films and literary works receiving this treatment include the unbearable lightness of being the manchurian candidate 1962 lady windemere's fan by oscar wilde and shakespeare's henry v interspersed
