For generations visitors, journalists and social scientists alike have asserted that Chicago is the quintessentially American city. Indeed, the introduction to the new Chicago reminds us that to know America you must know Chicago. The contributors boldly announce the demise of the city of broad shoulders and the transformation of its physical, social, cultural and economic institutions into a new Chicago. In this wide ranging book, twenty scholars, journalists and activists, relying on data from the 2000 census and many years of direct experience with the city, identify five converging forces in American urbanization which are reshaping this storied metropolis. The twenty six essays included here analyze Chicago by way of globalization and its impact on the contemporary city, economic restructuring, the evolution of machine style politics into managerial politics, physical transformations of the central city and its suburbs and race relations in a multicultural era. In elaborating on the effects of these broad forces, contributors detail the role of eight significant racial, ethnic and immigrant communities in shaping the character of the new Chicago and present ten case studies of innovative governmental, grassroots and civic action. Multifaceted and authoritative, the new Chicago offers an important and unique portrait of an emergent and new Windy City.

Since 1850, Chicago has felt the benefits of a vital Italian presence. These immigrants formed much of the unskilled workforce employed to build up this and many other major U.S. cities from often meager and humble beginnings. Italians built and congregated in neighborhoods that came to define the Chicago landscape. Post World War II development threatened this communal lifestyle and subsequent generations of Italian Americans have been forced to face new challenges to retain their ethnic heritage and identity in a changing world. With the city's support, they are succeeding.
