an in depth breakdown of the theological and exegetical basis for salvation amongst the unevangelized in reformed theology what is the fate of those who never hear the gospel what becomes of the unevangelized does reformed theology allow for belief that some even many who never hear the gospel are saved and if so what might that look like perhaps more importantly does scripture provide any hope for their salvation a standard answer from the reformed tradition is that those who never hear the gospel are simply not elect if they were god in his sovereignty would have sent the gospel to them yet the westminster confession affirms the reality of other elect those incapable of being outwardly called by the ministry of the word wcf 10.3 many luminaries of the reformed tradition w g t shedd a a hodge john gerstner douglas f kelly philip rollinson richard j mouw r c sproul and others have left open the possibility this refers to the unevangelized granting this possibility how can this be squared with the rest of reformed theology and what exegetical ground is there for such a view this book seeks to establish the theological and exegetical framework necessary to support such a view it argues both that reformed theology has the tools to account for such a possibility and that scripture provides ample evidence to not just establish the possibility but the reality of salvation amongst the unevangelized calvinism raises serious concerns about the growth of a popularized reformed theology through a wide lens of denominational and theological perspectives this volume carefully examines the theological tradition known today as calvinism particularly its doctrine of salvation editors david l allen and steve w lemke lead a team of top contributors offering theological historical biblical and practical critiques should christians be concerned with faith and evangelism and not political affairs in answering this question american crossroads provides a thought provoking look at what it means to submit to the governing authorities of the united states of america just as god called for christians to submit to the roman government that forced its will upon the people rom 13.1 so too is god calling for us to submit to the existing form of government in the united states a government that lives and thrives upon the will and involvement of people today by submitting to the government christian citizens are led to influence the american political process that depends upon the involvement of all citizens for its well being and survival vols 2 and 5 include appendices humanity by john hammett and katie mccoys is an urgent theological study of the doctrine of humanity the authors shed light on the philosophical cultural and spiritual influences that constantly challenge the dignity of human existence includes section reviews of recent theological literature a unique perspective on the christian and one s relationship to god fellow christians the church and a hostile world the tensions between calvinism and arminianism have perpetuated christian thought for some 500 years the concerns from both parties are legitimate calvinists are often accused of fatalism along with holding to a troubling view of double predestination arminians are often accused of holding to a human centered view of salvation that robs god of glory while championing human ability could it be that many of the tensions between calvinists and arminians are sourced in an often overlooked issue monergism and synergism could the same be said regarding protestantism and roman catholicism concerning justification in this volume daniel kirkpatrick explores the specific roles of god and humans in various aspects of salvation to determine whether salvation is a work between god and a person synergism or a work of god alone monergism building upon the framework of aquinas the reformers and arminians this book examines the issue of who does the work of salvation in light of cause and effect with hopes of providing new insights on historic doctrines
